NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS AND BUILDERS.

Important Discoveries and New Arrangements!

THE subscriber has discovered upon his premises a splendid

which promises to surpass anything yet found in the state, as well as add to the many already developed resources of our city.

A Beautiful, Cheap and Durable Building Material.

He has made arrangements to work this, together with the justly celebrated

Monterey Lime Stone Quarry,

on a scale equal to the demands of our enterprising citizens, and in order to accommodate his numerous customers, he has made arrangements to keep constantly on hand a large supply of

ATHENS MARBLE

(or Chicago stone.) He is now fitting up extensive saw and scouring mills and other machinery necessary for working the same, at a great reduction from former prices.

He also wishes to call attention to the fact that sound cutting or dimension stone can only be found at great distances from the surface, and that the Monterey Quarry is the only one in this county that has been worked far enough to reach those formations that are imperishable when exposed to the action of air and frost.

He is also supplying his Quarry with Derricks to facilitate the handling and loading large stone, and is fitting up expensive wagons, carts and trucks, rigged with the most approved appliances for moving and delivering dimension stone of any size, from two to thirty feet square, and from six to twenty inches thick, or any required length up to one hundred feet, to any part of the city or on board of the cars.

He is prepared to furnish

Cut Stone
of every description,

PLAIN, MOULDED, CARVED OR POLISHED FLAGGING
of any required dimension.

Curbing, Paving, Rubble and Coursing

stone of the best quality in the state, all of which will be delivered at his Quarries or any part of the city, to suit purchasers.

In conclusion, he begs to assure the public that from the superior quality of his materials, and facilities for furnishing, he can and will make it to their interests to patronize the Monterey Quarries.

All Orders from the city or country will be promptly attended to.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

Important Discoveries and New Arrangements!

THE subscriber has discovered upon his premises a splendid

which promises to surpass anything yet found in the state, as well as add to the many already developed resources of our city,

A Beautiful, Cheap and Durable Building Material,

He has made arrangements to work this, together with the justly celebrated

Monterey Lime Stone Quarry,

on a scale equal to the demands of our enterprising citizens, and in order to accommodate his numerous customers, he has made arrangements to keep constantly on hand a large supply of

ATHENS MARBLE

(or Chicago stone.) He is now fitting up extensive saw and scouring mills, and other machinery necessary for working the same, at a great reduction from former prices.

He also wishes to call attention to the fact that sound cutting or dimension stone can only be found at great distances from the surface, and that the Monterey Quarry is the only one in this county that has been worked far enough to reach those formations that are imperishable when exposed to the action of air and frost.

He is also supplying his Quarry with Derricks to facilitate the handling and loading large stone, and is fitting up expensive wagons, carts and trucks, rigged with the most approved appliances for moving and delivering dimension stone of any size, from two to thirty feet square, and from six to twenty inches thick, or any required length up to one hundred feet, to any part of the city or on board of the cars.

He is prepared to furnish

Cut Stone

of every description,

PLAIN, MOULDED, CARVED OR POLISHED FLAGGING

of any required dimension.

Curbing, Paving, Ruble and Coursing

stone of the best quality in the state, all of which will be delivered at his Quarries or any part of the city, to suit purchasers.

In conclusion, he begs to assure the public that from the superior quality of his materials, and facilities for furnishing, he can and will make it to their interests to patronize the Monterey Quarries.

☞ All Orders from the city or country will be promptly attended to.

THE above are First Class, justly popular, and prompt paying companies. They invite investigation into their condition and solicit business entirely upon their real merits. In point of solvency and reliability and honorable dealing, they have but few equals, and no superiors. They are founded upon the very best securities in the world—first class bonds and mortgages upon property in New York and Brooklyn—securities that have not, for the past ten years, depreciated below par, and are every way more reliable and permanent than railroad, bank, and other stocks, which are subject to the fluctuations of the market, and liable, in times of panic, as the experience of the past teaches, to become almost, if not entirely, valueless. And while there are Companies entering the field of competition, well calculated to mislead by publishing partial and one-sided statements of their condition, and without a cash surplus on hand sufficient to reinsure their outstanding risks, the above named companies always have and keep over and above their capital twice the amount, and in most instances four times, needed for the reinsurance of all their risks. With such a foundation, and with such a condition, they claim the right to look with confidence to the public for liberal patronage.

Policies issued without delay, and farms risks for a series of years taken at less rates than can be done by Mutual Companies, and a certainty given instead of an uncertainty. All losses promptly adjusted and paid.

New York Life Insurance Company,

Mr. Buchanan and the Investigation.

The recent investigations by a congressional committee which so exasperates Mr. Buchanan, and against which he protests so strongly have relation to expenditures for the public printing. This vexed subject, which has occupied so much of the attention of our own state legislatures, is in a fair way to make a great deal of trouble in congress. The most disgraceful developments of corruption have already been made in relation to it by the committee on public expenditures in the house. The evidence before the committee proves that the most ruinous charges have been made for printing, and so enormous are the "steals" that they would astonish even a Wisconsin state printer. The money arising form these fat jobs has been used in large amounts under the direction of the president himself to sustain government organs in congress, and to other members of Washington all over the country. Mr. Wendell's testimony shows that Mr. Buchanan was a party to these corrupt proceedings: that the negotiation for the transfer of the Union newspaper—now the Constitution—to Gen. Bowman by Wendell (one condition of which was that the latter should give twenty thousand dollars annually for political purposes, as an inducement for Bowman to take the paper off his hands as a free gift,) was carried on directly with the president. In short, it is proved that the president made the bargain with Wendell, by which a large electioneering or corruption fund was extorted from the latter.

The manner in which he is implicated is of course known to Mr. Buchanan, as it is understood by everybody at Washington.—In view of this we think the president should not place himself upon his dignity, denying the right of the house to investigate the matter because the executive is supposed to be independent of the legislative branch of the government. Congress certainly ought not to be put to the trouble and expense of bringing forward and sustaining articles of impeachment every time a charge of corruption is made against the president. He ought to be willing and anxious that such investigations should take place, and a protest of the sort he has really made must strike everybody as extraordinary.

Connecticut Election.

The election which takes place in Connecticut on Monday, is being contested by both parties with great animation. The enthusiasm is represented to be equal to that of 1840. The meetings are attended by thousands. The most prominent orators of both parties are speaking in every city and town. Mayor Wood, Paraguay Bowlin and Wisconsin Larrabee are talking to immense audiences of the so-called democracy, and on our side, Tom Corwin, Henry Wilson, Horace Greeley and others, are finding still larger and more enthusiastic republican assemblages.

Both parties acknowledge the importance of the struggle, as it is supposed to be a forerunner of the vote to be cast by that state for president in November. To the democrats it is indeed a death struggle, for if they are beaten now, their case is hopeless for all time to come in Connecticut. They therefore use all the means to secure success known to the corruptionists of the democratic party. We rely upon the love of principles so characteristic of the people of New England, and being now fully aroused by the unscrupulousness of their opponents, we have little doubt of their success.

IMPORTANT BILLS LOST.—We understand that the following senate bills were lost by the non-action of the assembly: an act reducing the rate of interest charged by banks from ten per cent. to eight per cent.; an act providing for the license of plank and turnpike roads, instead of taxing them; an act to provide for the issing of University bonds to pay the debts of that institution.

SCHOOL LIBRARY LAW.—We regret to learn that the school library law failed to pass the legislature and the law of last winter imposing a tax for township school libraries was repealed.

MILWAUKEE & MISSISSIPPI R. R.—The New York Evening Post learns by telegraph from Milwaukee, that foreclosure proceedings have been commenced by the first mortgage bondholders of the Milwaukee & Mississippi railroad company.

Messrs. Sampson Low and Son of London have in preparation a new work by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, who has been spending the winter in Florence.

Finances of the State.

The committee on finance to whom was referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to the finances of the state, have had the same under consideration, and report the following estimates, as setting forth from the most reliable information within their reach, the probable liabilities and resources of the state for the year 1861, which they believe to be liberal, and sufficiently accurate for all practical purposes:

Deduct from this sum Janssen's defalcation, and the amount due from clerks of circuit courts as worthless,	33,358 89
And we have an aggregate of reliable resources, amounting to	$130,555 00
Aggregate of estimated current and reliable resources,	$130,555 00
To which add two-fifths of a mill on the dollar valuation, which is required by statute to be annually levied, say	75,000 00
Making with the resources above mentioned, an aggregate of	$206,555 00
It will be seen that when the sum last above mentioned shall have been deducted from the total estimated liabilities, the balance left to be provided for in some other way, will be	$124,290 00

So that according to the foregoing estimates, the above mentioned sum of $124,290, will be required to be raised by state tax, to meet the demands likely to be made upon the general fund for the fiscal year ending in 1861.

And your committee have little doubt but that sum, together with other legitimate resources, might be sufficient to support the government and meet all proper demands against it, for the current year; but to provide for any unforseen contingencies which may arise, we deem it best to recommend that a state tax be raised in 1860, of $150,000, to meet the demands upon the general fund for the year 1861.

It will be readily perceived, that the treasury would have been able to meet all proper demands likely to be made upon it with a much less amount of tax than that above designated, had it not been for that large amount of unauthorized indebtedness contracted by public institutions, forming an aggregate beyond their appropriations, of some $60,000, to be paid out of the present revenues and next year's tax; the larger proportion of which may be paid the present year, while the residue is provided for by the tax herein recommended.

And had it not been for the transactions above alluded to, unanticipated, because unauthorized, the true principle of "pay as we go," would have been carried out to the letter, in our financial arrangement; and even with that large and unexpected amount of such indebtedness to contend with, that portion not provided for in next year's tax, will be paid from the present revenues, when the proper warrants shall be presented at the treasury.

And though it was said by said by some, that the tax raised last year would be insufficient to carry on the government, and meet the public expenditures, but your committee believed then, and are more fully convinced now, that to have raised more would have burthened the people with taxation without necessity. The revenues of the present year promise to be ample for all appropriate purposes and we have good reason to believe, that the funds now in and yet to come into the treasury, will be sufficient to defray the current expenses of the government, and pay the larger portion of that indebtedness contracted by public institutions.

It will be seen by an examination of all the facts, that it becomes clearly obvious, that had all our public institutions kept within the appropriations authorized by the legislature, and the agents of such institutions discharged their public trusts as they should have done, quite a large surplus would have been found in the treasury at the end of the present fiscal year.

And as evidence that such would have been the case, we need but refer to the fact that last year's estimates for liabilities against the state, were, in many instances, largely above the sums which have been required to meet such liabilites; and in some cases the margin in favor of the treasury has proven to be a very broad one. And while such has been the case, to a large amount, in reference to the estimated liabilities, the estimated resources have proven to be considerably greater than was set forth in that report. In view of all these facts, and the probable continued ability of the treasury to meet promptly all proper demands which may be presented against it, we take pleasure in saying that we have no cause to be ashamed of the financial condition of the state. And we sincerely hope, and confidently trust, that with proper economy on the part of the legislature and those administering the government, excessive taxation need not again be required to meet the legitimate demands upon the treasury.

Your committee have prepared, and herewith report a bill, and pecommend its passage, for levying the tax recommended in this report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
A. I. BENNETT, C. G. RODOLF, J. W. STEWART, Committee.

Correspondence of the Daily Wisconsin.
From Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 26.

The debate in the senate, on Thursday last, on the homestead bill, was decidedly rich. Mr. Clingman, of North Carolina, led off in a very senseless tirade upon the homestead principle, and he was most admirably taken down by John P. Hale, who made one of the happiest efforts I have yet heard from him. Clingman having harped on the shoe-strike, Hale replied that he was decidedly in favor of that movement, and in his characteristic style he exposed the desperate attempts that were being made by the democracy to manufacture capital out of it. Robert Johnson, of Arkansas, followed Hale in a volley badly aimed, of abuse of "black republicanism." Then came the dignified and statesmanlike speech of Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, in support of his own homestead bill. He took distinct exceptions to the house bill, and intimated that he could under no circumstances vote for it. Consequently no homestead bill but his—if even that—can pass the senate this session. His bill is far behind what the interests of the freemen of this country require, but still it is terribly offensive to the fire-eaters.

Johnson was followed by Wigfall, of Texas, in a speech to which I should despair of doing any sort of justice with my feeble pen. You must understand that Wigfall is a man of brilliant parts, and that he is at the same time a reckless ultra southern nullifier. He spoke about three hours, and during the latter part of his harangue he was—well, I suppose I must say it, right out, senator though he be—he was tight. He kept a glass of liquor before him on his desk, from which ever and anon he would take a sip, and after each swig he grew more brilliant and more courageous. He denounced the old whig party in the most unmeasured terms, and stigmatized all schemes of internal improvements and distribution of the public lands as agrarian measures, which must lead to a dissolution of the Union if not checked. He denounced, also, the Tennessee democracy as proverbially unsound, because of their position in favor of homesteads. He raved on at this rate, in his drunken phrenzy, and what he said would not have been of sufficient importance to have alluded to it afterwards, had not Toombs, Mason, and the great bulk of the southern democracy endorsed it. While the northern democratic senators looked on in disgust at this exhibition of the real spirit that animates the southern or controlling wing of their party, the great leaders of it, including men who stand no mean chance for the Charleston nomination, drank in every word which the talented Texan ultraist was uttering, and received it as pure gospel.

Since I wrote you last, nothing of importance has been done in the house, with the exception of the taking of a test and decisive vote upon the question of the contested seat from the Detroit district. Cooper, who claims to have received a majority of about fifty, was denied further time in which to take testimony, as he has been very negligent of the matter since his arrival here.—Mr. Howard, the contestant, who won an enviable reputation as the colleague of John Sherman on the celebrated Kansas investigating committee, is prepared to prove over six hundred illegal and spurious votes as having been counted for Cooper. This will probably give this Michigan border ruffian emulator his walking papers.

I am confident that Hunter stock has risen rapidly during the past week. The Star, of this city, now denies that he will have over a hundred votes on the first or second ballot. Hunter would undoubtedly receive the nomination without any serious opposition, if the south alone had the making of it. Breckenridge and Guthrie are neck-and neck in the race. They each run on a separate track. Guthrie looks to his strength in Pennsylvania as a tariff man, while Breckenridge counts upon the Presbyterian influence in that state, which would undoubtedly be given almost unitedly in his support. I should say, from the Charleston barometer of the past few days, that Hunter, Breckenridge and Guthrie stook just about equal as to the prospects of the nomination, with Breckenridge's proverbial luck in his favor.

The letter of Edward Bates continues to receive encomiums from all quarters—from all republican quarters. The endorsement given it by the National Intelligencer, has taken aback a great many. It is suspected that endorsement is to be accounted for in this wise. The editors probably thought that it would be considered too conservative by the Republicans, and therefore it would be entirely safe to endorse it. But now, when the republicans say "that is our doctrine precisely," the staid old Intelligencer finds itself in bed with black republicans!

Capt. Wilson, of the Lady Elgin, has completed a contract with the government for carrying the mail between Chicago and Superior City, for which he receives $200 a trip. This is a good bargain for the Captain, but no one better deserves it than he.

Thaddeus Hyatt is lying in jail here, enjoying an unnoticed martyrdom. Thaddeus, I think, smacks slightly of the humbug.

We are looking for John Hickman's great speech this week. He will make the fur fly. His theme will be the aggressions of the south.

There is a very strong effort being made by the northern democrats to turn the recent events on our Mexican frontier to political account. Cox's speech the other day is to be followed up by others; and in the meantime the thing is sedulously talked up in private conversation. The fact is, the popular sovereignty men are exceedingly anxious to get up a new issue before the Charleston convention. They already feel their widowhood in the loss of this dear dogma to which they had become wedded, and on the principle held by many, that the most anxious husbands (because most lonely) are those whose spouses have but recently left them, so these popular sovereignty relicts are looking around for some hobby to fill the place of the "loved and lost." But I don's think they will be permitted to kick up the dust they desire to, for their southern taskmasters are too intent upon making the direct slavery issue at Charleston. After the nomination, they will indulge their northern allies in any such little privilege as a Mexican, or the like, that they may ask for.

Spring is opening splendidly. The gay streaming ribbons of the ladies, the new and jaunty style of bonnet, and the perennial smiles, accord well with the rapidly appearing folinge and bursting buds of the floral kingdom. It is truly a lovely spring.

THE ASSESSMENT LAW PASSED.—We are gratified to learn that the assessment matter has been finally settled by our legislature. The Madison Journal says:

Senator A. I. Bennett's amendments to the assessment law, after being defeated in the assembly, have finally been substantially adopted to-day by both houses on agreement to the report of a committee of conference. Thus one long mixed question is settled and well settled. The bill secures the taxation of all personal property save a limited exemption, allowing no offset for debts.

WASHINGTON, March 30.

The post office committee of the house had Mr. Gwin's Pacific Telegraph bill up this morning and referred it to the sub committee, consisting of Messrs. Colfax, Craig, of N. C., and Allen. While there was a general argument in favor of some such enterprises and of extending government aid towards its construction, it was thought proper to examine the details of this particular project more carefully.

The majority of the Harper's Ferry committee have now decided to summon Gov. Wise, and it is probable the question will be submitted to the senate. Mr. Blair closed his case before the committee on elections this morning, making his right to the seat held by Mr. Barrett clear and unquestionable. The frauds committed in that election were only comparable to those in Kansas.

The post office committee have invited John Cochrane and Mr. Corwin to appear on Tuesday morning in behalf of Carlisle Butterfield's mail route along the Gulf of Mexico. The feeling in the committee is very favorable to this scheme.

Petitions from all parts of New York are pouring in, praying that the reciprocity treaty with Canada may be amended or rescinded. Hostility to it is growing more bitter daily, so ruinous is it to the interest of western New York. Mr. Hatch's report will not only be strongly condemnatory to the treaty, but will urge that it be abrogated at the earliest possible day. President Buchanan will lay the report immediately before congress.

Mirane, signing himself admiral of the Mexican navy, has published a protest against the capture of his steamers. He says that neither the Saratoga, Indianola or Wave showed flags when approaching. He knew that the Indianola and Waves were Juarez's steamers, and supposed they were towing armed boats to attack him. He attempted to escape when two shots were fired at him, which he returned. He then recognized the Saratoga and ordered the firing to cease, notwithstanding which the attack was continued with the known result. He says he purchased the steamers at Havana from merchants by order of the supreme government of Mexico. Nationalized one and the other was to have been nationalized ween reaching Mexico if proved worthy.

GOOD GRACIOUS!—We didn't know that anything like a "new style" was ever unpopular with the ladies; but to our great astonishment the Philadelphia North American says that the spring fashion in bonnets is entirely tabooed by the more sensible of the sex in that city. That paper gives a description of the rejected head covering as follows:

"In shape the new style of bonnets is a cross between a coal scuttle and a buggy top. A ledge projects over the face, presenting an appearance so ungainly as to induce a wonder that anybody could adopt it. During all our peregrinations of the week didn't encounter more than a dozen of these monstrosites, and these, we fancy were the property of outsiders. For her exquisite taste in matters of dress, a Philadelphia lady may be known in any circle that you meet her. Without adopting the extreme of any fashion, except its becomingness be beyond a question, the ladies of Philadelphia play second fiddle to no other part of this hemisphere. For this reason the buggy top bonnet is voted a humbug, and will not be adopted by our ladies. The new bonnets that have made their appearance are in perfect keeping with the usual discrimination of our belles in matters of personal attire. Again we say that the new fangled bonnet attempted to be forced upon our fashionables, is unbecoming and ungraceful.

The executive committee of the American Colonization society have appropriated ten thousand dollars to aid such free colored persons as have been expelled from Arkaneas, or others in depressed circumstances, who may desire to find a home in Liberia.

An Intelligible Account of the War in the Gulf.

The New Orleans Delta of March 22, gives some interesting particulars of the recent capture of the Mexican steamers at Vera Cruz. One of them, the Marquese de Habana, has arrived at New Orleans. She is an old and not a very valuable steamer of eight hundred tons burden, and in her equipment not prepared for a conflict:

Her only arms were three old English-made cannons, unmounted, one eighteen and two nine pounders. The gun carriages to mount these cannons lay near them, on the main deck, in a confused pile, with other rubbish. There were, we learn, no small arms on board the Marquese when captured. There was but one single mark of the broadside of the Saratoga noticeable on the Marquese; a thirty-two pound ball entered her bulwarks about midship, and passed through the larbord side, making a round clear hole, as if it had been cut with a circular saw.—In its passage this ball carried off both legs of an unfortunate American who, in an evil hour, doubtless under the pressure of some desperate stress of fortune, had enlisted in Marin's enterprise. It is remarkable that he was the only person on the Marquese who was killed, and he was the only American in her crew. He bled to death lying in his bunk, which, with his blankets, is still to be seen, saturated with his blood, within a few feet of where he received his death wound. The name of this unfortunate man was not known to any on board. His trunk will be opened when the United States marshal obtains possession of the ship, in order to obtain some clue as to his identity. The rest of the crew were Spaniards, Mexicans, Germans and Englishmen. There were twenty of them held as prisoners, in the forecastle of the vessel. They were ironed, a rigor which was deemed necessary by the commander, in view of their equality in number with his prize crew. Their aspect was generally not very dejected or forlorn, tho' they were certainly a very mongrel and unfavorable looking set. The majority of them seemed to be of the very lowest class of Spanish, Portuguese and Mexican sailors. There were, however, among them two or three melancholy looking Germans, who did not seem to relish the discomforts of their lot, nor to manifest an appreciation of the society of their swarthy companions from a more southern clime. In contrast with our bold, vigorous, well-fed Jack Tars, this mongrel crew certainly presented a very pittiful piratical aspect.

From a conversation with the officers in command of this prize we learned, in addition to what has already been published, that Marin's ships were not fired into until they had commenced firing, with musketry and an eighteen pounder, into the Indianolia and Wave, steamers, in the employ of our squodron, which had approached and hailed the Miramon, to ascertain her character and demand that she should show her colors. The Indianolia was in command of Capt. Bryson, of the United States sloop-of-war Preble, and the Wave of Lieut. Canard, of the United States frigate Savannah. The Indianolia is the steamer owned by General Goicouria, which has been engaged in the trade between this city and Vera Cruz, and has recently been chartered by the Juarez government. The Wave is a pilot steamer. They were both chartered to tow the Saratoga to Antonio Lizardo, to ascertain the character and purposes of Marin's squadron. A strong force of sailors and marines, under the officers named, to man these steamers, which, on the attempt of Marin's ships to escape the Savannah, were ordered by Capt. Turner to intercept and require them to bring to. Howitzers were placed on the Indianolia and Wave, and the sailors and marines were armed with the Minnie rifle.

As the American steamer approached the Miramon, and loudly hailed her, a volley of musketry was fired from her decks into the men of the crew of the Preble. The Indianolia and Wave both returned the fire, and the Miramon, in endeavoring to escape from them, passed within point-blank shot of the Saratoga, which immediately opened her batteries, and swept the Miramon's decks with a larboard broadside, at the same time delivering her starboard broadside into Marquese de Habana. The Miramon continued to fight for some time, her pivot forward gun being well manned. The officer in command of this gun, seeing the hopelessness of any further resistance, refused to continue the fight, whereupon, it is said, he was set upon by the desperate crew with knives and badly wounded.—Finally, however, after having some thirty odd of her crew killed and wounded, she ceased all resistance, was boarded by a detachment from the Indianolia, and taken possession of by Capt. Bryson.

In the two steamers of Marin there were in all about one hundred and sixty men. No colors were shown on either steamer until after our vessels had been fired into.—Spanish colors were then hauled up. The whole transaction stands fully and fairly justified, so far as our officers are concerned, without reference to the question of political and national law touching the right to seize and intercept these vessels. They committed the first violence, fired the first shot, wounded Americrn citizens on the decks of our own ships, and were justly punished and treated as pirates and freebooters. It will be worse than vain or foolish for the Spanish authorities to complain of the insult to their flag in this affair.

Their several dispatches and protests to Captain Jarvis will be treated with little attention and respect. The other officers of the foreign vessels at Vera Cruz, including the British and the French commanders, approved and applauded the conduct of our commodore.

PAIRING OFF.—Republicans and democrats in the senate and house are pairing off for the conventions at Charleston and Chicago, so that if congress refuses to adjourn ten days for each convention it is evident there will not be a quorum for the transaction of business; so that congress will be virtually adjourned.

THE ADMISSION OF KANSAS.—If a southern candidate should be nominated at Charleston, as is now anticipated, it is probable the senate may consent to the admission of Kansas under the Wyandot constitution, fearing to raise that issue in the presidential canvass. The democracy of the south, however, are reluctant to make this concession, and will not, except in the last resort. So says the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune.

REQUISITION GRANTED.—The Tipton (Iowa) Advertiser of the 22d inst. says that Gov. Kirkwood has issued his warrant for the arrest and surrender of Barclay Coppoc, a second application having been made to him accompanied by the proper papers.—This, says the Advertiser, "is shutting the door after the horse is stolen, so far as taking Coppoc is concerned, for he has long since left the state and is now in a safer country."

Mr. Buchanan and the Investigation.

The recent investigations by a congressional committee which so exasperates Mr. Buchanan, and against which he protests so strongly have relation to expenditures for the public printing. This vexed subject, which has occupied so much of the attention of our own state legislatures, is in a fair way to make a great deal of trouble in congress. The most disgraceful developments of corruption have already been made in relation to it by the committee on public expenditures in the house. The evidence before the committee proves that the most ruinous charges have been made for printing, and so enormous are the "steals" that they would astonish even a Wisconsin state printer. The money arising form these fat jobs has been used in large amounts under the direction of the president himself to sustain government organs in congress, and to elect members of Washington all over the country. Mr. Wendell's testimony shows that Mr. Buchanan was a party to these corrupt proceedings; that the negotiation for the transfer of the Union newspaper—now the Constitution—to Gen. Bowman by Wendell (one condition of which was that the latter should give twenty thousand dollars annually for political purposes, as an inducement for Bowman to take the paper off his hands as a free gift,) was carried on directly with the president. In short, it is proved that the president made the bargain with Wendell, by which a large electioneering or corruption fund was extorted from the latter.

The manner in which he is implicated is of course known to Mr. Buchanan, as it is understood by everybody at Washington.—In view of this we think the president should not place himself upon his dignity, denying the right of the house to investigate the matter because the executive is supposed to be independent of the legislative branch of the government. Congress certainly ought not to be put to the trouble and expense of bringing forward and sustaining articles of impeachment every time a charge of corruption is made against the president. He ought to be willing and anxious that such investigations should take place, and a protest of the sort he has really made must strike everybody as extraordinary.

Connecticut Election.

The election which takes place in Connecticut on Monday, is being contested by both parties with great animation. The enthusiasm is represented to be equal to that of 1840. The meetings are attended by thousands. The most prominent orators of both parties are speaking in every city and town. Mayor Wood, Paraguay Bowlin and Wisconsin Larrabee are lalking to immense audiences of the so-called democracy, and on our side, Tom Corwin, Henry Wilson, Horace Greeley and others, are finding still larger and more enthusiastic republican assemblages.

Both parties acknowledge the importance of the struggle, as it is supposed to be a forerunner of tee vote to be cast by that state for president in November. To the democrats it is indeed a death struggle, for if they are beaten now, their case is hopeless for all time to come in Connecticut. They therefore use all the means to secure success known to the corruptionists of the democratic party. We rely upon the love of principles so characteristic of the people of New England, and being now fully aroused by the unscrupulousness of their opponents, we have little doubt of their success.

IMPORTANT BILLS LOST.—We understand that the following senate bills were lost by the non-action of the assembly: an act reducing the rate of interest charged by banks from ten per cent. to eight per cent.; an act providing for the license of plank and turnpike roads, instead of taxing them; an act to provide for the issing of University bonds to pay the debts of that institution.

SCHOOL LIBRARY LAW.—We regret to learn that the school library law failed to pass the legislature and the law of last winter imposing a tax for township school libraries was repealed.

MILWAUKEE & MISSISSIPPI R. R.—The New York Evening Post learns by telegraph from Milwaukee, that foreclosure proceedings have been commenced by the first mortgage bondholders of the Milwaukee & Mississippi railroad company.

Messrs. Sampson Low and Son of London have in preparation a new work by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, who has been spending the winter in Florence.

Deduct from this sum Janssen's defalcation, and the amount due from clerks of circuit courts as worthless,	33,358 89
And we have an aggregate of reliable resources, amounting to	$136,555 00
Aggregate of estimated current and reliable resources,	$136,555 00
To which add two-fifths of a mill on the dollar valuation, which is required by statute to be annually levied, say	70,000 00
Making with the resources above mentioned, an aggregate of	$206,555 00
It will be seen that when the sum last above mentioned shall have been deducted from the total estimated liabilities, the balance left to be provided for in some other way, will be	$124,290 00

So that according to the foregoing estimates, the above mentioned sum of $124,290, will be required to be raised by state tax, to meet the demands likely to be made upon the general fund for the fiscal year ending in 1861.

And your committee have little doubt but that sum, together with other legitimate resources, might be sufficient to support the government and meet all proper demands against it, for the current year; but to provide for any unforseen contingencies which may arise, we deem it best to recommend that a state tax be raised in 1860, of $150,000, to meet the demands upon the general fund for the year 1861.

It will be readily perceived, that the treasury would have been able to meet all proper demands likely to be made upon it with a much less amount of tax than that above designated, had it not been for that large amount of unauthorized indebtedness contracted by public institutions, forming an aggregate beyond their appropriations, of some $60,000, to be paid out of the present revenues and next year's tax; the larger proportion of which may be paid the present year, while the residue is provided for by the tax herein recommended.

And had it not been for the transactions above alluded to, unanticipated, because unauthorized, the true principle of "pay as we go," would have been carried out to the letter, in our financial arrangement; and even with that large and unexpected amount of such indebtedness to contend with, that portion not provided for in next year's tax, will be paid from the present revenues, when the proper warrants shall be presented at the treasury.

And though it was said by said by some, that the tax raised last year would be insufficient to carry on the government, and meet the public expenditures, but your committee believed then, and are more fully convinced now, that to have raised more would have burthened the people with taxation without necessity. The revenues of the present year promise to be ample for all appropriate purposes and we have good reason to believe, that the funds now in and yet to come into the treasury, will be sufficient to defray the current expenses of the government, and pay the larger portion of that indebtedness contracted by public institutions.

It will be seen by an examination of all the facts, that it becomes clearly obvious, that had all our public institutions kept within the appropriations authorized by the legislature, and the agents of such institutions discharged their public trusts as they should have done, quite a large surplus would have been found in the treasury at the end of the present fiscal year.

And as evidence that such would have been the case, we need but refer to the fact that last year's estimates for liabilities against the state, were, in many instances, largely above the sums which have been required to meet such liabilites; and in some cases the margin in favor of the treasury has proven to be a very broad one. And while such has been the case, to a large amount, in reference to the estimated liabilities, the estimated resources have proven to be considerably greater than was set forth in that report. In view of all these facts, and the probable continued ability of the treasury to meet promptly all proper demands which may be presented against it, we take pleasure in saying that we have no cause to be ashamed of the financial condition of the state. And we sincerely hope, and confidently trust, that with proper economy on the part of the legislature and those administering the government, excessive taxation need not again be required to meet the legitimate demands upon the treasury.

Your committee have prepared, and herewith report a bill, and recommend its passage, for levying the tax recommended in this report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
A. I. BENNETT, C. G. RODOLF, J. W. STEWART, Committee.

Correspondence of the Daily Wisconsin.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 26.

The debate in the senate, on Thursday last, on the homestead bill, was decidedly rich. Mr. Clingman, of North Carolina, led off in a very senseless tirade upon the homestead principle, and he was most admirably taken down by John P. Hale, who made one of the happiest efforts I have yet heard from him. Clingman having harped on the shoe-strike, Hale replied that he was decidedly in favor of that movement, and in his characteristic style he exposed the desperate attempts that were being made by the democracy to manufacture capital out of it. Robert Johnson, of Arkansas, followed Hale in a volley badly aimed, of abuse of "black republicanism." Then came the dignified and statesmanlike speech of Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, in support of his own homestead bill. He took distinct exceptions to the house bill, and intimated that he could under no circumstances vote for it. Consequently no homestead bill but his—if even that—can pass the senate this session. His bill is far behind what the interests of the freemen of this country require, but still it is terribly offensive to the fire-eaters.

Johnson was followed by Wigfall, of Texas, in a speech to which I should despair of doing any sort of justice with my feeble pen. You must understand that Wigfall is a man of brilliant parts, and that he is at the same time a reckless ultra southern nullifier. He spoke about three hours, and during the latter part of his harangue he was—well, I suppose I must say it, right out, senator though he be—he was tight. He kept a glass of liquor before him on his desk, from which ever and anon he would take a sip, and after each swig he grew more brilliant and more courageous. He denounced the old whig party in the most unmeasured terms, and stigmatized all schemes of internal improvements and distribution of the public lands as agrarian measures, which must lead to a dissolution of the Union if not checked. He denounced, also, the Tennessee democracy as proverbially unsound, because of their position in favor of homesteads. He raved on at this rate, in his drunken phrenzy, and what he said would not have been of sufficient importance to have alluded to it afterwards, had not Toombs, Mason, and the great bulk of the southern democracy endorsed it. While the northern democratic senators looked on in disgust at this exhibition of the real spirit that animates the southern or controlling wing of their party, the great leaders of it, including men who stand no mean chance for the Charleston nomination, drank in every word which the talented Texan altraist was uttering, and received it as pure gospel.

Since I wrote you last, nothing of importance has been done in the house, with the exception of the taking of a test and decisive vote upon the question of the contested seat from the Detroit district. Cooper, who claims to have received a majority of about fifty, was denied further time in which to take testimony, as he has been very negligent of the matter since his arrival here.—Mr. Howard, the contestant, who won an enviable reputation as the colleague of John Sherman on the celebrated Kansas investigating committee, is prepared to prove over six hundred illegal and spurious votes as having been counted for Cooper. This will probably give this Michigan border ruffian emulator his walking papers.

I am confident that Hunter stock has risen rapidly during the past week. The Star, of this city, now denies that he will have over a hundred votes on the first or second ballot. Hunter would undoubtedly receive the nomination without any serious opposition, if the south alone had the making of it. Breckenridge and Guthrie are neck-and neck in the race. They each run on a separate track. Guthrie looks to his strength in Pennsylvania as a tariff man, while Breckenridge counts upon the Presbyterian influence in that state, which would undoubtedly be given almost unitedly in his support. I should say, from the Charleston barometer of the past few days, that Hunter, Breckenridge and Guthrie stook just about equal as to the prospects of the nomination, with Breckenridge's proverbial luck in his favor.

The letter of Edward Bates continues to receive enconiums from all quarters—from all republican quarters. The endorsement given it by the National Intelligencer, has taken aback a great many. It is suspected that endorsement is to be accounted for in this wise. The editors probably thought that it would be considered too conservative by the Republicans, and therefore it would be entirely safe to endorse it. But now, when the republicans say "that is our doctrine precisely," the staid old Intelligencer finds itself in bed with black republicans!

Capt. Wilson, of the Lady Elgin, has completed a contract with the government for carrying the mail between Chicago and Superior City, for which he receives $200 a trip. This is a good bargain for the Captain, but no one better deserves it than he.

Thaddeus Hyatt is lying in jail here, enjoying an unnoticed martyrdom. Thaddeus, I think, smacks slightly of the humbug.

We are looking for John Hickman's great speech this week. He will make the fur fly. His theme will be the aggressions of the south.

There is a very strong effort being made by the northern democrats to turn the recent events on our Mexican frontier to political account. Cox's speech the other day is to be followed up by others; and in the meantime the thing is sedulously talked up in private conversation. The fact is, the popular sovereignty men are exceedingly anxious to get up a new issue before the Charleston convention. They already feel their widowhood in the loss of this dear dogma to which they had become wedded, and on the principle held by many, that the most anxious husbands (because most lonely) are those whose spouses have but recently left them, so these popular sovereignty relicts are looking around for some hobby to fill the place of the "loved and lost." But I don't think they will be permitted to kick up the dust they desire to, for their southern taskmasters are too intent upon making the direct slavery issue at Charleston. After the nomination, they will indulge their northern allies in any such little privilege as a Mexican, or the like, that they may ask for.

Spring is opening splendidly. The gay streaming ribbons of the ladies, the new and jaunty style of bonnet, and the perennial smiles, accord well with the rapidly appearing foliage and bursting buds of the floral kingdom. It is truly a lovely spring.

THE ASSESSMENT LAW PASSED.—We are gratified to learn that the assessment matter has been finally settled by our legislature. The Madison Journal says:

Senator A. I. Bennett's amendments to the assessment law, after being defeated in the assembly, have finally been substantially adopted to-day by both houses on agreement to the report of a committee of conference. Thus one long mixed question is settled and well settled. The bill secures the taxation of all personal property save a limited exemption, allowing no offset for debts.

WASHINGTON, March 30.

The post office committee of the house had Mr. Gwin's Pacific Telegraph bill up this morning and referred it to the sub committee, consisting of Messrs. Colfax, Craig, of N. C., and Allen. While there was a general argument in favor of some such enterprises and of extending government aid towards its construction, it was thought proper to examine the details of this particular project more carefully.

The majority of the Harper's Ferry committee have now decided to summon Gov. Wise, and it is probable the question will be submitted to the senate. Mr. Blair closed his case before the committee on elections this morning, making his right to the seat held by Mr. Barrett clear and unquestionable. The frauds committed in that election were only comparable to those in Kansas.

The post office committee have invited John Cochrane and Mr. Corwin to appear on Tuesday morning in behalf of Carlisle Butterfield's mail route along the Gulf of Mexico. The feeling in the committee is very favorable to this scheme.

Col. Charles F. Smith, Ind., retains command in Utah until Col. Cook, who succeeds Gen. Johnson, shall reach there, when he will occupy the second rank to him.

Petitions from all parts of New York are pouring in, praying that the reciprocity treaty with Canada may be amended or rescinded. Hostility to it is growing more bitter daily, so ruinous is it to the interest of western New York. Mr. Hatch's report will not only be strongly condemnatory to the treaty, but will urge that it be abrogated at the earliest possible day. President Buchanan will lay the report immediately before congress.

KENOSHA, WIS., March 31.

NEW ORLEANS, March 31.

Mirane, signing himself admiral of the Mexican navy, has published a protest against the capture of his steamers. He says that neither the Saratoga, Indianola or Wave showed flags when approaching. He knew that the Indianola and Waves were Juarez's steamers, and supposed they were towing armed boats to attack him. He attempted to escape when two shots were fired at him, which he returned. He then recognized the Saratoga and ordered the firing to cease, notwithstanding which the attack was continued with the known result. He says he purchased the steamers at Havana from merchants by order of the supreme government of Mexico. Nationalized one and the other was to have been nationalized ween reaching Mexico if proved worthy.

GOOD GRACIOUS!—We didn't know that anything like a "new style" was ever unpopular with the ladies; but to our great astonishment the Philadelphia North American says that the spring fashion in bonnets is entirely tabooed by the more sensible of the sex in that city. That paper gives a description of the rejected head covering as follows:

"In shape the new style of bonnets is a cross between a coal scuttle and a buggy top. A ledge projects over the face, presenting an appearance so ungainly as to induce a wonder that anybody could adopt it. During all our peregrinations of the week didn't encounter more than a dozen of these monstrosites, and these, we fancy were the property of outsiders. For her exquisite taste in matters of dress, a Philadelphia lady may be known in any circle that you meet her. Without adopting the extreme of any fashion, except its becomingness be beyond a question, the ladies of Philadelphia play second fiddle to no other part of this hemisphere. For this reason the buggy top bonnet is voted a humbug, and will not be adopted by our ladies. The new bonnets that have made their appearance are in perfect keeping with the usual discrimination of our belles in matters of personal attire. Again we say that the new fangled bonnet attempted to be forced upon our fashionables, is unbecoming and ungraceful.

The executive committee of the American Colonization society have appropriated ten thousand dollars to aid such free colored persons as have been expelled from Arkaneas, or others in depressed circumstances, who may desire to find a home in Liberia.

An Intelligible Account of the War in the Gulf.

The New Orleans Delta of March 22, gives some interesting particulars of the recent capture of the Mexican steamers at Vera Cruz. One of them, the Marquese de Habana, has arrived at New Orleans. She is an old and not a very valuable steamer of eight hundred tons burden, and in her equipment not prepared for a conflict:

Her only arms were three old English-made cannons, unmounted, one eighteen and two nine pounders. The gun carriages to mount these cannons lay near them, on the main deck, in a confused pile, with other rubbish. There were, we learn, no small arms on board the Marquese when captured. There was but one single mark of the broadside of the Saratoga noticeable on the Marquese; a thirty-two pound ball entered her bulwarks about midship, and passed through the larbord side, making a round clear hole, as if it had been cut with a circular saw.—In its passage this ball carried off both legs of an unfortunate American who, in an evil hour, doubtless under the pressure of some desperate stress of fortune, had enlisted in Marin's enterprise. It is remarkable that he was the only person on the Marquese who was killed, and he was the only American in her crew. He bled to death lying in his bunk, which, with his blankets, is still to be seen, saturated with his blood, within a few feet of where he received his death wound. The name of this unfortunate man was not known to any on board. His trunk will be opened when the United States marshal obtains possession of the ship, in order to obtain some clue as to his identity. The rest of the crew were Spaniards, Mexicans, Germans and Englishmen. There were twenty of them held as prisoners, in the forecastle of the vessel. They were ironed, a rigor which was deemed necessary by the commander, in view of their equality in number with his prize crew. Their aspect was generally not very dejected or forlorn, tho' they were certainly a very mongrel and unfavorable looking set. The majority of them seemed to be of the very lowest class of Spanish, Portuguese and Mexican sailors. There were, however, among them two or three melancholy looking Germans, who did not seem to relish the discomforts of their lot, nor to manifest an appreciation of the society of their swarthy companions from a more southern clime. In contrast with our bold, vigorous, well-fed Jack Tars, this mongrel crew certainly presented a very pitiful piratical aspect.

From a conversation with the officers in command of this prize we learned, in addition to what has already been published, that Marin's ships were not fired into until they had commenced firing, with musketry and an eighteen pounder, into the Indianolia and Wave, steamers, in the employ of our squadron, which had approached and hailed the Miramon, to ascertain her character and demand that she should show her colors. The Indianolia was in command of Capt. Bryson, of the United States sloop-of-war Preble, and the Wave of Lieut. Canard, of the United States frigate Savannah. The Indianolia is the steamer owned by General Goicouria, which has been engaged in the trade between this city and Vera Cruz, and has recently been chartered by the Jaurez government. The Wave is a pilot steamer. They were both chartered to tow the Saratoga to Antonio Lizardo, to ascertain the character and purposes of of Marin's squadron. A strong force of sailors and marines, under the officers named, to man these steamers, which, on the attempt of Marin's ships to escape the Savannah, were ordered by Capt. Turner to intercept and require them to bring to. Howitzers were placed on the Indianolia and Wave, and the sailors and marines were armed with the Minnie rifle.

As the American steamer approached the Miramon, and loudly hailed her, a volley of musketry was fired from her decks into the men of the crew of the Preble. The Indianolia and Wave both returned the fire, and the Miramon, in endeavoring to escape from them, passed within point-blank shot of the Saratoga, which immediately opened her batteries, and swept the Miramon's decks with a larboard broadside, at the same time delivering her starboard broadside into Marquese de Habana. The Miramon continued to fight for some time, her pivot forward gun being well manned. The officer in command of this gun, seeing the hopelessness of any further resistance, refused to continue the fight, whereupon, it is said, he was set upon by the desperate crew with knives and badly wounded.—Finally, however, after having some thirty odd of her crew killed and wounded, she ceased all resistance, was boarded by a detachment from the Indianolia, and taken possession of by Capt. Bryson.

In the two steamers of Marin there were in all about one hundred and sixty men. No colors were shown on either steamer until after our vessels had been fired into.—Spanish colors were then hauled up. The whole transaction stands fully and fairly justified, so far as our officers are concerned, without reference to the question of political and national law touching the right to seize and intercept these vessels. They committed the first violence, fired the first shot, wounded Americrn citizens on the decks of our own ships, and were justly punished and treated as pirates and freebooters. It will be worse than vain or foolish for the Spanish authorities to complain of the insult to their flag in this affair.

Their several dispatches and protests to Captain Jarvis will be treated with little attention and respect. The other officers of the foreign vessels at Vera Cruz, including the British and the French commanders, approved and applauded the conduct of our commodore.

PAIRING OFF.—Republicans and democrats in the senate and house are pairing off for the conventions at Charleston and Chicago, so that if congress refuses to adjourn ten days for each convention it is evident there will not be a quorum for the transaction of business; so that congress will be virtually adjourned.

THE ADMISSION OF KANSAS.—If a southern candidate should be nominated at Charleston, as is now anticipated, it is probable the senate may consent to the admission of Kansas under the Wyandot constitution, fearing to raise that issue in the presidential canvass. The democracy of the south, however, are reluctant to make this concession, and will not, except in the last resort. So says the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune.

REQUISITION GRANTED.—The Tipton (Iowa) Advertiser of the 22d inst. says that Gov. Kirkwood has issued his warrant for the arrest and surrender of Barclay Coppoc, a second application having been made to him accompanied by the proper papers.—This, says the Advertiser, "is shutting the door after the horse is stolen, so far as taking Coppoc is concerned, for he has long since left the state and is now in a safer country."

March 29th, 1860. Committee.

CLUB MEETING.—The Janesville City Republican Club will meet at the Court Room on Monday evening, April 2d, at 7½ o'clock. A general attendance of the members of the club as well as all republicans is requested. The club will be addressed by Messrs. Joseph A. Sleeper, C. R. Gibbs, H. N. Comstock, Charles G. Williams, I. C. Sloan and others.

R. B. TREAT, President.
A. A. JACKSON, Secretary.

Republican Ward Nominations.

The republicans of the the several wards of this city met this afternoon and made the following nominations, which the people will, without much doubt, ratify at the polls in all the wards:

First Ward.—Alderman, Wm. M. Tallman; School Commissioner, H. Palmer; Constable, N. H. Parker.

Second Ward.—Alderman, A. C. Bates; School Commissioner, H. A. Patterson; Constable, S. C. Burnham.

Third Ward.—Aldermen, Lyman Smith; School Commissioner, S. W. Smith; Constable, C. G. Gilbert.

Fourth Ward.—Alderman, P. A. Pierce; School Commissioner, E. C. Smith; Constable, A. H. Johnson.

The full proceedings of the different meetings will be published Monday.

☞ Rev. Lewis A. Kemper will officiate in Trinity church to-morrow.

A CARD.—Mr. and Mrs. Kinney, for themselves and family, desire to express their gratitude to their many friends for the very generous and substantial tokens of sympathy placed in their possession on the evening of the 29th inst. May the blessings divinely bestowed upon the cheerful giver come, in great richness, upon them all.
Janesville, March 31, 1860.

THE SCHOOL EXHIBITION.—The High School Exhibition last evening was a success. The house was crowded as it never was before, and the exercises were interesting and satisfactory. We intend to give a full account of the proceedings in our paper on Monday afternoon. Those desiring extra copies will please leave their orders.

A NEW AND USEFUL INVENTION.—Mr. H. G. Wise is now offering for sale in this city Palmer's Patent Adjustable Clothes Dryer. This invention was patented in October, and seems to us to possess very decided advantages over any other we have seen. It is so constructed that the arms, through which the lines for hanging the clothes are passed, are moveable and can be raised by means of a lever, to any part of the upright post, thus enabling the person hanging the clothes to bring these arms within convenient reach and then place them above anything likely to touch them. The arms also revolve, and by this means facilitate the process of drying. After the clothes have been removed, the arms and lines can be detached from the post and secured from the action of the weather. The length of cord or line in these arms is 125 feet. The price of this dryer, including the setting up ready for use, is $3,50, which makes it a cheap household convenience, in view of its many advantages and merits.

Mr. Wise, we understand, is authorized to sell state, county or town rights. He may be found at the Excelsior Hotel, where a model may be seen at any time. He has already received several orders for the dryer from persons who have examined the plan of its construction.

DR. ROSENBERG.—The Beloit Journal represents the expulsion of Dr. Rosenberg from that place as a quieter proceeding than the report we published from the Democrat. The Journal says:

SUMMARY JUSTICE.—A fellow calling himself Dr. Rosenberg, and professing to be an oculist appeared in town last week, and in the course of his business had occasion frequently to call at houses where the male members were absent. In such cases he invariably made himself impudently free in his remarks, and in some instances he grossly insulted the lady occupants.—Last Friday evening he was waited upon by a deputation of young gentlemen, who informed him that if he took the first train of cars out of town he would be treated with comparative leniency. He concluded to act upon the suggestion, and started. On his way to the cars he was attended by a company of friends, who administered some slight tokens of their regard; but that he was badly maltreated, as a previous account of the affair states, is untrue. No rotten eggs were thrown, and after he begged pardon for his offences, he was not injured.

PRINTING BILL PASSED.—The legislature has finally passed a new printing law, which was a compromise between Senator Hotchkiss' and Senator Bennett's bill. We understand that the law is a pretty good one. We hope it is.

Revival news comes from Oregon, where the congregations are large and the religious spirit active.

Non-Explosive Burning Fluid
USED WITH SAFETY & ECONOMY.

The Best in the Market.
Palmer's Drug and Tea Store.

WE have, for several years past dealt largely in BURNING FLUID, and have always, thus far, kept fully up to the times, in any improvements made in its manufacture. Nearly a year ago, in an appeal in favor of its more general use, based upon the fact that the raw material from which it is made, is mainly the product of our own farms, we publicly announced that there was, at the temperature at which it is generally used, "no explosive power whatever in Burning Fluid, as now made by those who understand the business in which they are engaged. That injury from its use was either the result of gross carelessness, or of undue alarm caused by a belief in its explosive power," &c. Since then we have manufactured and sold thousand of gallons to consumers in this city and vicinity, and if our assumption was an erroneous one, it would undoubtedly have been discovered are this.
We are prepared to submit our Fluid to any test the public may call for, satisfied that, with ordinary care, no safer, better or more agreeable light can be produced. As we are indebted to no traveling "PROF. GREEN—O!" for the high state of perfection attained by us in its manufacture, we are, as usual, prepared to offer our Fluid at the LOWEST MARKET FIGURES, and to guarantee entire satisfaction in its use, or the money refunded. GET THE BEST
And Therefore the Cheapest!

I INVITE the attention of the people of Janesville and Rock county, to my BOOTS & SHOES. Every article that goes out of my shop is manufactured in it, that can be employed. The old hands of T. H. Buckingham are working for me, and I will guarrantee, as I always have done, every piece of work that leaves my shop. Nothing but the best quality of stock will be used, and the price, in every case, will be as low as can be afforded. Those who want a first-rate pegged or sewed boot, and good fit, at a fair price, (while I give employment to our own citizens,) will do well to give me a call.

And I make the assertion boldly, that I have as good stock and workmen, as this state can produce, and I am willing to make this assertion good. And also, I wish it distinctly understood that no eastern work will be kept or sold in my institution. One price, and that only, will be maintained.

A CARD.—Mr. and Mrs. Kinney, for themselves and family, desire to express their gratitude to their many friends for the very generous and substantial tokens of sympathy placed in their possession on the evening of the 29th inst. May the blessings divinely bestowed upon the cheerful giver come, in great richness, upon them all.
Janesville, March 31, 1860.

THE SCHOOL EXHIBITION.—The High School Exhibition last evening was a success. The house was crowded as it never was before, and the exercises were interesting and satisfactory. We intend to give a full account of the proceedings in our paper on Monday afternoon. Those desiring extra copies will please leave their orders.

A NEW AND USEFUL INVENTION.—Mr. H. G. Wise is new offering for sale in this city Palmer's Patent Adjustable Clothes Dryer. This invention was pa ented in October, and seems to us to possess very decided advantage over any other we have seen. It is so constructed that the arms, through which the lines for hanging the clothes are passed, are moveable and can be raised by means of a lever, to any part of the upright post, thus enabling the person hanging the cloths to bring these arms within convenient reach and then place them above anything likely to touch them. The arms also revolve, and by this means facilitate the process of drying. After the clothes have been removed, the arms and lines can be detached from the post and secured from the action of the weather. The length of cord or line in these arms is 125 feet.—The price of this dryer, including the setting up, ready for use, is $5,50, which makes it a cheap household convenience, in view of its many advantages and merits.

Mr. Wise, we understand, is authorized to sell state, county or town rights. He may be found at the Excelsior Hotel, where a model may be seen at any time. He has already received several orders for the dryer from persons who have examined the plan of its construction.

DR. ROSENBERG.—The Beloit Journal represents the expulsion of Dr. Rosenberg from that place as a quieter proceeding than the report we published from the Democrat. The Journal says:

SUMMARY JUSTICE.—A fellow calling himself Dr. Rosenberg, and professing to be an occulist appeared in town last week, and in the course of his business had occasion frequently to call at houses where the male members were absent. In such cases he invariably made himself impudently free in his remarks, and in some instances he grossly insulted the lady occupants.—Last Friday evening he was waited upon by a deputation of young gentlemen, who informed him that if he took the first train of cars out of town he would be treated with comparative leniency. He concluded to act upon the suggestion, and started. On his way to the cars he was attended by a company of friends, who administered some slight tokens of their regard; but that he was badly maltreated, as a previous account of the affair states, is untrue. No rotten eggs were thrown, and after he begged pardon for his offences, he was not injured.

PRINTING BILL PASSED.—The legislature has finally passed a new printing law, which was a compromise between Senator Hotchkiss' and Senator Bennett's bill. We understand that the law is a pretty good one. We hope it is.

Revival news comes from Oregon, where the congregations are large and the religious spirit active.

Non-Explosive Burning Fluid

USED WITH SAFETY & ECONOMY.

The Best in the Market.

Palmer's Drug and Tea Store.

WE have, for several years past dealt largely in BURNING FLUID, and have always, thus far, kept fully up to the times, in any improvements made in its manufacture. Nearly a year ago, in an appeal in favor of its more general use, based upon the fact that the raw material from which it is made, is mainly the product of our own farms, we publicly announced that there was, at the temperature at which it is generally used, "no explosive power whatever in Burning Fluid, as now made by those who understand the business in which they are engaged. That injury from its use was either the result of gross carelessness, or of undue alarm caused by a belief in its explosive power," &c. Since then we have manufactured and sold thousand of gallons to consumers in this city and vicinity, and if our assumption was an erroneous one, it would undoubtedly have been discovered ere this.

We are prepared to submit our Fluid to any test the public may call for, satisfied that, with ordinary care, no safer, better or more agreeable light can be produced. As we are indebted to no traveling "PROF. GREEN—O!" for the high state of perfection attained by us in its manufacture, we are, as usual, prepared to offer our Fluid at the LOWEST MARKET FIGURES, and to guarantee entire satisfaction in its use, or the money refunded. City Meeting.

Republicans will not forget or neglect the city meeting at the court room this evening. Such a meeting is a good preparation for the work to-morrow. There will be good speaking, and undoubtedly a large attendance. Turn out, and get warmed up for to-morrow.

Vote for Sloan for Chief Justice.

Our City Ticket.

Our paper this evening contains the proceedings and nominations of the republican mass convention Saturday evening.

Dr. Treat, the candidate for Mayor is known to every voter in the city. He is an active, public spirited citizen, qualified for the office for which he is a candidate, and will make an efficient Mayor. The fact that there was no other candidate before the convention is a compliment seldom bestowed upon a nominee for popular favor.

Mr. Barrere, as city clerk, has discharged his duties so faithfully and acceptably that he carried his nomination over strong and competent competitors.

Mr. Young, the candidate for city treasurer, is a qualified business man in whose hands the city treasury may be safely entrusted. The opposition to him will be active, not from any distrust of his integrity or qualifications, and the republicans of this city should rally to his support with a corresponding energy. He is well entitled to the best efforts of his party friends, and ought to receive them.

Mr. Comstock had no opposition as Police Justice, his fitness for the office designating him as the candidate by common consent.

Mr. Potter, the candidate for Justice of the Peace, is one of our most respectable citizens and enjoys the confidence of all who know him. He has, we believe, served as a justice in New York, and possesses the qualifications to make a good magistrate.

The work for tomorrow is to elect the whole of it, and nothing but it. Republicans! will you do your duty?

Split Tickets.

There will be an abundance of split tickets about the polls to-morrow. A careful inspection of the names upon every ticket voted will do no harm. Without caution, you may vote for somebody you do not prefer to.

Places of Holding the Polls.

1st. Ward.—Engine House of No. 1.

2d Ward.—Engine House of No. 2.

3d Ward.—Building formerly occupied by L. Field, as a justice office.

4th Ward.—Office in building known as Hume's planing mill.

Fourth Ward Democratic Nominations.—As usual, in the 4th ward, where "democracy" is in the ascendant, the "people's" dodge is discarded, and genuine "democrats" nominated. Andrew Palmer is in nomination for alderman, James Armstrong for school commissioner, and Thomas Whalen for constable.

You must look only in republican wards for "people's" movements.

Notice.—A regular meeting of the Rock River Engine Co. No. 1, will be held at their hall on Monday evening, April 2d, 1860, at 7½ o'clock. A full attendance is desired, as business of importance is to be transacted. By order.

G. S. STRASBERGER,

J. R. P. Laird, Sec. Foreman.

Retrenchment and Reform.

This is the cry set up by the "democracy" alias the "people's" men. It is a funny cry, to be sure, coming from the men it does.—With every fund in the city restricted in the charter, and a penalty for overdrawing any of them, we think the tax-payers of the city will feel quite as safe to entrust their interests to republicans as any democrats who may ask their suffrages.

Vote for Sloan for Chief Justice.

What will be Gained!

We would like to ask any republican who feels disposed to scratch any candidate on a republican ticket, what he is to gain by it. Will you get any better man in his place? For ourselves we do not know where a favorable change can be made. If, then, no benefit is to accrue; if our opponents offer us nothing better, what is the use in scratching? Let republicans stand together, and make a clean thing of it. That's the true way!

[☞ A correspondent who loves a joke, sends us the following:]

The Question Involved.

Drs. Treat and Mitchell are the rival candidates for Mayor, and a democratic wag says the question involved is the mode of poisoning dogs under the new dog law. Dr. Mitchell is a devoted disciple of the old school; Dr. Treat is an equally firm adherent of the eclectic or "reform" school. We are decidedly in favor of the "reform" practice in this case, as the quickest mode of exit. It is calomel vs. nux vomica.

A Voter.

First Ward "People's" Nominations.—J. B. Doe was to-day nominated for alderman in the first ward, by a "people's" caucus, G. W. Chittenden for school commissioner, and J. W. Plato for constable.—Of course, a democrat, Mr. Doe, must take the head of the ticket. Will the republicans of the staunch "old first" ratify such a proceeding?

Tobacco, Cigars and Liquor.

THE Tobacco, Cigar and Liquor business known under the firm of O. F. Meyer, will be carried on by the undersigned in the future under the firm of O. F. Meyer & Brother, who will keep constantly on hand, and respectfully offer to the citizens of Janesville and the public in general, at prices to correspond with the times, a full assortment of Cigars, fine-cut Chewing and Plug Tobacco, Pipes, Tobacco Boxes, etc.; also a carefully selected stock of Liquors and Groceries, at the old stand on Main street. Connecticut Election.

Hartford, 2d.

The excitement is very great this morning, and the voting is progressing rapidly. The vote will be the largest ever given in the state, and both parties confident of victory.

New Haven, 2d, 1 P. M.

The weather is splendid. The voting is larger than ever has been known at this hour. It is generally quiet except in the 3d ward, where the German republicans are being driven from the polls by the rowdy democrats. Democrats are said to be 200 ahead.

Waterbury, 2d.

The election is quietly proceeding, and but little excitement. Whole number of votes polled is 660. The republicans are leading by 29. The other towns in this vicinity not heard from.

New London, Ct. April 2d, 1 P. M.

Vote thus far stands, republican 531; democrats 416.

New York, April 2d.

The Herald correspondent says the President was served with all the testimony taken before the Covode investigating committee, having any personal reference to himself before he prepared his protesting message to the house.

The Harper's Ferry committee decided at their meeting yesterday not to subpœna Gov. Wise, he having placed in their possession all the acts connected with that affair. The court has not decided what action they will take towards John Brown, Jr., who refuses to obey their summons.

The Social Gathering at the High School.—There was a gathering of the pupils of the High School at the school edifice, on Saturday evening, together with the teachers of the city, and some friends of the schools. There were about three hundred persons present, forming a very agreeable party. The large upper room of the High School was used for the occasion, and during the whole evening it presented an animated appearance. All appeared happy is the opportunity of social intercourse and congratulations upon the successful termination of the school term which had just closed with the exhibition.

During the evening the prizes which had been awarded to the young ladies for the best compositions, were presented by S. A. Hudson, Esq.

The first prize which had been awarded to Miss Hattie D. Clow, consisted of a splendidly bound copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, new edition, offered by Messrs. Newell and Dearborn. The second prize, to Miss Cornelia S. Barrere, was a fine copy of Poets of the Nineteenth Century, illustrated, offered by A. Graham, Esq.

Mr. Sleeper also presented an appropriate volume to each of the young ladies who competed for the prizes in compositions. Mr. Sleeper was one of the committee to award the prizes and desired in this manner to make known his appreciation of the efforts of these young ladies, which were so creditable to themselves.

Mr. Fish presented to Master Duane J. Armstrong, on behalf of several citizens, a copy of Irving's Life of Washington, as a testimony of their approval of the creditable manner in which he delivered his declamation at the exhibition. It was a well-merited gift.

The social gathering closed by a supper in the basement hall of the High School Building, which was prepared by the pupils, and reflected much credit upon their liberality and hospitality.

It was a pleasant meeting, which will be long remembered by those who participated in it with feelings of unalloyed pleasure.

Acknowledgements.

The following cards of acknowledgment have been furnished for publication:

Messrs Newell and Dearborn, and Gentlemen of the Committee:

I return my most sincere and humble thanks for the beautiful and valuable token of your appreciation, which, I feel, has far o'er-reached the merit of my composition. Like the dew from heaven, which chances to fall upon the tiny spear of grass, that struggling upwards amidst thriftier growth, may scarce expect to reach the common level, so hath encouraging words, and interest so deeply manifested in that much-prized token, fallen upon my heart and mind, awakening both, to life and greater effort. Hattie D. Clow.

The undersigned tenders her thanks for the receipt of the beautiful gift book presented by Mr. A. Graham, and to the committee on awards, her grateful acknowledgments for the kind and generous notice of her composition.

Among so many that were excellent, she was not less surprised than delighted to find that her little piece had found favor in the eyes of the committee. This mark of their kindness will stimulate her to renewed efforts in this and other branches of her studies.

With emotions of esteem and grateful regards, I am respectfully, yours, &c.,

CORNELIA S. BARRERE.

Considerable excitement exists in Tioga county, Pa., in consequence of the action of the authorities, who have ordered a tax upon cats and dogs. They are to be rated per capita, no regard being had to standing, whether of high or low descent, lengthy caudal appendages or abridged narratives, whether properly trained or their bringing up neglected—all are put upon equal footing.

City Meeting.

Republicans will not forget or neglect the city meeting at the court room this evening. Such a meeting is a good preparation for the work to-morrow. There will be good speaking, and undoubtedly a large attendance. Turn out, and get warmed up for to-morrow.

Vote for Sloan for Chief Justice.

Our City Ticket.

Our paper this evening contains the proceedings and nominations of the republican mass convention Saturday evening.

Dr. Treat, the candidate for Mayor is known to every voter in the city. He is an active, public spirited citizen, qualified for the office for which he is a candidate, and will make an efficient Mayor. The fact that there was no other candidate before the convention is a compliment seldom bestowed upon a nominee for popular favor.

Mr. Barrere, as city clerk, has discharged his duties so faithfully and acceptably that he carried his nomination over strong and competent competitors.

Mr. Young, the candidate for city treasurer, is a qualified business man in whose hands the city treasury may be safely entrusted. The opposition to him will be active, not from any distrust of his integrity or qualifications, and the republicans of this city should rally to his support with a corresponding energy. He is well entitled to the best efforts of his party friends, and ought to receive them.

Mr. Comstock had no opposition as Police Justice, his fitness for the office designating him as the candidate by common consent.

Mr. Potter, the candidate for Justice of the Peace, is one of our most respectable citizens and enjoys the confidence of all who know him. He has, we believe, served as a justice in New York, and possesses the qualifications to make a good magistrate.

The work for to-morrow is to elect the whole of it, and nothing but it. Republicans! will you do your duty?

Split Tickets.

There will be an abundance of split tickets about the polls to-morrow. A careful inspection of the names upon every ticket voted will do no harm. Without caution, you may vote for somebody you do not prefer to.

Places of Holding the Polls.

1st Ward.—Engine House of No. 1.

2d Ward.—Engine House of No. 2.

3d Ward.—Building formerly occupied by L. Field, as a justice office.

4th Ward.—Office in building known as Hume's planing mill.

Fourth Ward Democratic Nomination.—As usual, in the 4th ward, where "democracy" is in the ascendant, the "people's" dodge is discarded, and genuine "democrats" nominated. Andrew Palmer is in nomination for alderman, James Armstrong for school commissioner, and Thomas Whelan for constable.

You must look only in republican wards for "people's" movements.

Notice.—A regular meeting of the Rock River Engine Co. No. 1, will be held at their hall on Monday evening, April 2d, 1860, at 7½ o'clock. A full attendance is desired, as business of importance is to be transacted. By order,

G. S. STRASBERGER,
J. R. P. Laird, Sec. Foreman.

Retrenchment and Reform.

This is the cry set up by the "democracy" alias the "people's" men. It is a funny cry, to be sure, coming from the men it does.—With every fund in the city restricted in the charter, and a penalty for overdrawing any of them, we think the tax-payers of the city will feel quite as safe to entrust their interests to republicans as any democrats who may ask their suffrages.

Vote for Sloan for Chief Justice.

What will be Gained?

We would like to ask any republican who feels disposed to scratch any candidate on a republican ticket, what he is to gain by it. Will you get any better man in his place? For ourselves we do not know where a favorable change can be made. If, then, no benefit is to accrue; if our opponents offer us nothing better, what is the use in scratching? Let republicans stand together, and make a clean thing of it. That's the true way!

[☞ A correspondent who loves a joke, sends us the following:]

The Question Involved.

Drs. Treat and Mitchell are the rival candidates for Mayor, and a democratic wag says the question involved is the mode of poisoning dogs under the new dog law. Dr. Mitchell is a devoted disciple of the old school; Dr. Treat is an equally firm adherent of the eclectic or "reform" school. We are decidedly in favor of the "reform" practice in this case, as the quickest mode of exit. It is calomel vs. nux vomica.

A Voter.

First Ward "People's" Nominations.—J. B. Doe was to-day nominated for alderman in the first ward, by a "people's" caucus, G. W. Chittenden for school commissioner, and J. W. Plato for constable.—Of course, a democrat, Mr. Doe, must take the head of the ticket. Will the republicans of the staunch "old first" ratify such a proceeding?

Connecticut Election.

Hartford, 2d.

The excitement is very great this morning, and the voting is progressing rapidly. The vote will be the largest ever given in the state, and both parties confident of victory.

New Haven, 2d, 1 P. M.

The weather is splendid. The voting is larger than ever has been known at this hour. It is generally quiet except in the 3d ward, where the German republicans are being driven from the polls by the rowdy democrats. Democrats are said to be 200 ahead.

Waterbury, 2d.

The election is quietly proceeding, and but little excitement. Whole number of votes polled is 660. The republicans are leading by 29. The other towns in this vicinity not heard from.

New London, Ct. April 2d, 1 P. M.

Vote thus far stands, republican 531; democrats 416.

New York, April 2d.

The Herald correspondent says the President was served with all the testimony taken before the Covode investigating committee, having any personal reference to himself before he prepared his protesting message to the house.

The Harper's Ferry committee decided at their meeting yesterday not to subpœna Gov. Wise, he having placed in their possession all the acts connected with that affair. The court has not decided what action they will take towards John Brown, Jr., who refuses to obey their summons.

The Social Gathering at the High School.—There was a gathering of the pupils of the High School at the school edifice, on Saturday evening, together with the teachers of the city, and some friends of the schools. There were about three hundred persons present, forming a very agreeable pasty. The large upper room of the High School was used for the occasion, and during the whole evening it presented an animated appearance. All appeared happy is the opportunity of social intercourse and congratulations upon the successful termination of the school term which had just closed with the exhibition.

During the evening the prizes which had been awarded to the young ladies for the best compositions, were presented by S. A. Hudson, Esq.

The first prize which had been awarded to Miss Hattie D. Clow, consisted of a splendidly bound copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, new edition, offered by Messrs. Newell and Dearborn. The second prize, to Miss Cornelia S. Barrere, was a fine copy of Poets of the Nineteenth Century, illustrated, offered by A. Graham, Esq.

Mr. Sleeper also presented an appropriate volume to each of the young ladies who competed for the prizes in compositions. Mr. Sleeper was one of the committee to award the prizes and desired in this manner to make known his appreciation of the efforts of these young ladies, which were so creditable to themselves.

Mr. Fish presented to Master Duane J. Armstrong, on behalf of several citizens, a copy of Irving's Life of Washington, as a testimony of their approval of the creditable manner in which he delivered his declamation at the exhibition. It was a well-merited gift.

The social gathering closed by a supper in the basement hall of the High School Building, which was prepared by the pupils, and reflected much credit upon their liberality and hospitality.

It was a pleasant meeting, which will be long remembered by those who participated in it with feelings of unalloyed pleasure.

Acknowledgements.

The following cards of acknowledgment have been furnished for publication:

Messrs Newell and Dearborn, and Gentlemen of the Committee:

I return my most sincere and humble thanks for the beautiful and valuable token of your appreciation, which, I feel, has far o'er-reached the merit of my composition. Like the dew from heaven, which chances to fall upon the tiny spear of grass, that struggling upwards amidst thriftier growth, may scarce expect to reach the common level, so hath encouraging words, and interest so deeply manifested in that much-prized token, fallen upon my heart and mind, awakening both, to life and greater effort.

Hattie D. Clow.

The undersigned tenders her thanks for the receipt of the beautiful gift book presented by Mr. A. Graham, and to the committee on awards, her grateful acknowledgments for the kind and generous notice of her composition.

Among so many that were excellent, she was not less surprised than delighted to find that her little piece had found favor in the eyes of the committee. This mark of their kindness will stimulate her to renewed efforts in this and other branches of her studies.

With emotions of esteem and grateful regards, I am respectfully, yours, &c.,

CORNELIA S. BARRERE.

Janesville, April 2, 1860.

Considerable excitement exists in Tioga county, Pa., in consequence of the action of the authorities, who have ordered a tax upon cats and dogs. They are to be rated per capita, no regard being had to standing, whether of high or low descent, lengthy caudal appendages or abridged narratives, whether properly trained or their bringing up neglected—all are put upon equal footing.

Saturday Afternoon, March 31st.

Wheat, for the most part, has been dull and heavy, but closes with a firmer tendency, owing to the light receipts and an improved feeling at New York. To-day's prices are 90c for No. 1 on track, 96a97c for No. 2, 1.00a 1.02 for sample lots better than No. 1, and 1.03a1.04 for extra delivered—a decline of 1c on milling qualities from last week's closing prices.

There was a better demand for flour, but wheat was scarcely so firm, the market being quiet, with few transactions.

The Duty of Republicans.

There seems to us only one right course for republicans to pursue to-morrow, and that is to support the regularly nominated tickets. If dissatisfaction exists with any of the nominations, the evils complained of are more likely, at this time, to be increased than remedied by refusing to support those nominations. Dissentions now among republicans will leave their influence upon the presidential election next fall. Janesville is unquestionably a republican city, and should now, in an especial manner exhibit its true character. The success of the "people's" ticket will be heralded through out the state as a "democratic" triumph, and in no place in the state would our opponents like so well to claim a victory as in Janesville. We hope, therefore, that the republicans of the city will give a united and vigorous support to all their tickets, and we appeal to those who may feel aggrieved by any proceedings in any of the nominations, to show their attachment to their cause by a union of effort and action at the polls. While merely personal feelings or preferences have been sacrificed in other localities, let not Janesville be detached from the glorious of republican cities which have commenced so well the work of the fall campaign by a glorious triumph in the municipal elections.

Vote for Chief Justice.

Especial attention should be given to the ballot for chief justice of the supreme court. It is a separate ballot, and unless care is taken, the city ticket may be voted without the accompaniment of the judicial ticket.—We have a large number of tickets with Mr. Sloan's name, and every man who distributes a city ticket should supply himself with a ballot for Mr. Sloan.

DON'T FORGET IT.

People's Caucus.

The true character of the "People's Caucus" was well indicated by the persons who were prominent in it. J. B. Doe was chairman, J. H. Vermilye, secretary, and the nominations were all made, we understand, on the motion of Joel Haselton. This is a pretty liberal sprinkling of "democracy" for a "people's" movement.

Dr. John Mitchell was nominated for Mayor; Felix Barrere for Clerk; Ira Justin, Jr., for Treasurer; H. N. Comstock for Police Justice, and Hiram Taylor for Justice of the Peace. The vote on this office was 105, and the highest cast.

Dr. Mitchell is a thorough democrat, and in his political affiliations, nothing else.—The same is true of Mr. Taylor. Mr. Barrere and Mr. Comstock were taken from the republican ticket, solely to strengthen the chances of the other candidates on the "people's" ticket, and from no love to them or respect to republicans. Mr. Barrere was a candidate for treasurer in the republican convention, and was fairly beaten, because he has held the office, which is the most lucrative in the city, for three years, and it was deemed eminently fit and proper that he should yield his place to somebody else. We think Mr. Justin, as a matter of propriety in himself, and duty in view of his professions as a republican, should have conformed to the decision of the convention, and not allowed himself to be placed in opposition to the nominee of that convention. If he had been nominated in the republican convention he would have expected and claimed the support of the republican party. In his present position we do not see how any republican can consistently support him.

Such is the character of the "peoples" movement. It is the old dodge of a minority party endeavoring to slip some of its members into important offices which they could not obtain under their own colors.—Let the republicans of the city put an emphatic veto on the attempt.

Vote for Sloan for Chief Justice.

Work for and vote the republican ticket.

Our Public Schools.

HIGH SCHOOL.

REPORT OF EXAMINING COMMITTEE.

Mr. H. Cass, Principal; Miss Francis A. Bacon, Miss A. B. Morgan, and Miss Belle S. Webster, Assistants.
Grammar Department.—Mrs. Caroline Fisher, Principal: Miss Mary Graham, Assistant.

To the Board of Education:

The committee appointed to examine the high school, including the grammar department present the following report:

Some of the committee were present during the whole of the two days appropriated to this examination, and thus were enabled to form a very satisfactory opinion of the attainments of the scholars and the modes of instruction employed. There were examined three classes in arithmetic; three in algebra; two in geometry; one in physical geography; one each in chemistry, physiology, history and latin, and two in English grammar.

The teachers allowed the committee full opportunity to test, in any way they chose, the knowledge of the pupils in the subject under examination.

The first impression was that nothing had been prepared expressly for that occasion. On the contrary sufficient time was allowed for each class to pass over somewhat minutely the ground that had been traversed during the term. The prompt replies to questions, having reference to subjects however remote, and the readiness with which any misstatement was detected by the members of the class, showed conclusively, that the class, as a whole, had made thorough work.

The committee are highly gratified with the general appearance of the school, believing that in the quality of its instructors—the modes of instruction and in the attainments of its scholars in the branches taught, it will take high rank among the best schools.

The committee do not feel at liberty to call attention to particular classes. In almost every school, some one department acquires a leading position, and hence the school gains a reputation to accord with it. Judging only from this examination, it would seem that the mathematical department had acquired this position.

Some philosophical and chemical apparatus is greatly needed. Much interest would be added to studies that are now comparatively dry and uninteresting, if this want was supplied. But in no department of study did the committee find a lack of interest, either in teacher or pupil. The school was thoroughly ALIVE in all of its departments.

Our schools are the pride of our city. In no other way, by an equal expenditure, can our citizens present to the world around us an attraction so noble—to no other purpose will the money invested yield a profit so large and so lasting.

WARD SCHOOLS.

REPORTS OF EXAMINING COMMITTEES.

First Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Mr. A. C. Fish, Principal. Miss Helen A. Brown, Assistant.
Primary Departments.—No. 1, Miss Mary E. Ames. No. 2, Miss L. A. Gilman. No. 3, Miss Mason. No. 4, Miss Mary A. Wingate.

To the Board of Education:

The committee appointed to attend the examination of the several schools in the first ward in this city, respectfully report that they have performed that duty and listened to the exercises with very great pleasure.

At Miss Mason's school at the white school house, they found about 50 scholars. Their reading, spelling, and recitations in mental arithmetic were very good. If they excelled in any one recitation it was in geography. Their drawings upon the black board demonstrative of the science of geography, showed that these scholars were making rapid progress.

Miss Wingate's school in the brick school house: 48 scholars. We found it under excellent discipline, and their declamations, singing and recitations such as to show that their teaching had not been in vain. We have to regret that we could not have given more time to this school.

Miss Gilman's school in the basement of the Academy building, of about 40 scholars is a gem of a school, and their teacher has great reason to be proud of it, as she evidently is. Their recitation in mental arithmetic, and the declamation of Master Albert Angel, are well worth a visit to this school.

Miss Ames' department in the same building is a higher grade than either of the others mentioned, and is progressing well. In this school your committee discovered many indications of talent among the pupils, and of minds already under excellent discipline. No parent, we think, could desire to see his child making better improvement than they are making in this department.

The last and highest department is that under Mr. Fish, assisted by Miss Brown,—We observed in this department as we did in all the others the most perfect good-will and sympathy, between scholars and teachers, and the government and general management of this school, as also in the recitations and declamations, both scholars and teachers manifested a common interest, united in one common effort, and their performances showed most satisfactorily to your committee that the efforts of neither had been unsuccessful.

The committee regard the exercise of singing in these schools as one, which in their judgment, contributes much to the general good feeling and perfect subordination that prevails among the pupils, and also as an accomplishment that is highly creditable to its possessor. The progress already made in the science of music is highly commendable.

It is evident to your committee that the teachers in the first ward are doing their whole duty and the scholars making all the progress that could be desired. But we think the schools entitled to better accommodations. The academy building is entirely insufficient for the number of scholars that do and would attend them both as to the room it affords, and its construction. A good ward school building is very much needed, without which, the schools must suffer very great inconvenience which will increase with the increase of numbers.

In conclusion your committee would say that they were unable, for the want of time, to make as thorough an examination of the schools as they could wish and as duty would require, although the whole day was devoted to them, yet they were unable to hear recitations in many of the branches taught, and make up their judgment of the whole from those they were permitted to hear.

Yours, very respectfully,
S. A. HUDSON, Ch'n.

Second Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Mr. E. F. Spaulding, Principal. Miss H. R. Moon, Assistant.
Primary Department.—Miss Mary E. Cook, Principal. Miss D. Perkins, Assistant.

To the Board of Education:

We found the school under the competent and able supervision of Mr. Spaulding, general superintendent and principal of the intermediate department, assisted by Miss Moon, with Miss Cook, principal of the primary department, assisted by Miss Perkins.

We spent the day in a careful and rigid inspection and examination of the various exercises and recitations. The rooms were finely decorated with paintings and evergreens, which with the excellent vocal music, and the religious exercises, furnished aesthetic and religious surroundings, which cannot fail to exert a salutary and conservative influence for good upon the minds and hearts of the youth there congregated. There were about 70 scholars in each room. Those in the primary department ranged from four to ten, and those in the intermediate department from seven to fifteen years of age. The silence and order which prevailed in both rooms, reflect the highest credit to the teachers as disciplinarians.

The docility of the pupils is also very commendable.

We were highly pleased with the performance of the classes in reading, the distinct enunciation and the correct emphasis and pronunciation. The recitations of the classes in both mental and written arithmetic were entirely satisfactory, exhibiting a thorough knowledge of both principles and practice as far as the pupils have proceeded in the science. The other branches, grammar, geography, &c., were well learned and the knowledge of them satisfactorily shown. We were highly pleased with the efforts of the teachers in the primary department to teach their little pupils geography, natural history, &c., orally. We regret the want of apparatus to assist the teachers in illustrating the sciences taught.

A. S. JONES,
JOHN NICHOLS,
Exam. Com.

Third Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Miss Amelia Rockefeller, Principal. Miss L. Martin, Assistant.
Primary Department.—No 1, Miss S. Webster. No 2, Mrs. A. M. Hardinge.

To the Board of Education:

The undersigned, appointed by you to examine the third ward schools, respectfully beg leave to report, that they have attended to the duties of their appointment; that their examination though necessarily but too brief, was sufficiently thorough to convince them that good progress was being made by the pupils in their several studies, and that the attainments already reached by the various classes under examination are to a degree worthy of much commendation. The department of the pupils in the school room, which your committee look upon as of the first importance in educational discipline, was in general, orderly, quiet and respectful towards their instructors, and there was a praise-worthy degree of attention exhibited in the recitations, and of solicitude even, to answer correctly the questions proposed to them by their teachers and the committee. The primary department No. 1, taught by Mrs. Hardinge gave your committee much pleasure; especially some classes of very small children, who read their lessons with the fluency and correctness of older scholars; their spelling was also excellent. They have begun right to make good students. In the primary department No. 2, Miss Webster, teacher, there was a bright little class in mental arithmetic that exhibited active minds and thorough training on the part of the teacher. This was the only class the committee had time to examine in this department. In the intermediate department, Miss Rockefeller, teacher and Miss Martin assistant, classes were examined in geography, arithmetic and grammar. After a pretty thorough questioning in these studies by the teachers, the committee were at some pains to take the pupils away from their text books and to suggest questions that might not be familiar to them, but they were gratified in finding that these questions in most instances were answered as promptly as those occurring in their regular lessons, evincing that they had learned to apply the principles generally which were given in the books for specific cases.

Upon the whole, the committee are of the belief that the teachers in the several departments have performed the duties of their positions faithfully and efficiently; that the progress shown in the classes is highly creditable, alike to the efforts of the teachers and to the intellect of the pupils.

Respectfully submitted,
LEVI ALDEN,
S. W. SMITH,
Committee.

Fourth Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Mr. A. M. Case, Principal. Miss Pierson, Assistant.
Primary Department.—Miss Jennie C. Newman, Principal. Miss R. A. St. John, Assistant.

To the Board of Education:

The undersigned having been requested by the Board of Education of the city of Janesville to attend the examination of the pupils of the fourth ward school at the close of the present term, would respectfully submit that they have attended the said examination and have witnessed the recitations of the respective classes, and the exercises in music, composition, and declamation, and have examined some specimens of chalk mapping on the black board, and have observed so far as they were able from so short an opportunity the mode and principles of government adopted by the teachers. In regard to the recitations we would say that the classes acquitted themselves with great credit, showing to our satisfaction that they have pursued their studies during the term with industry and a hearty good will; that the instructions of their teachers have been systematic, able, thorough. The undersigned also noticed with peculiar pleasure the proficiency which has been made in music; and the good taste and originality manifested in composition. In declamation many of the scholars exhibited true evidences of future eminence in the fields of eloquence. Of the map of the United States drawn in chalk upon the black board, (taking into consideration the age of the author) your committee would say they have never seen it excelled. Of the principles and mode of government we would say that our observations were quite limited, but we think we saw enough of teachers, and pupils, to show that the whole system is founded upon the principle of love; and that in the administration of the government by the teachers this principle has not been departed from. And your committee would bear testimony to the efficiency and peculiar value of this principle over that of fear or force.

Your committee have been informed and they believe that the attendance has been fully as large during the past term as at any former terms; and that the relations between teachers and scholars, seem to be, and no doubt are, agreeable, and happy.

The undersigned on their own behalf, and on behalf of the parents, and residents of the fourth ward, take this occasion to express to the teachers of this school their entire satisfaction with the manner in which the same has been conducted by them; and we would hereby tender to them our hearty thanks for the ability, fidelity, and zeal which they have manifested for us, for our children and for the community in which we live.

And to the board of education we would say, that the manner in which their duties have been performed, and the wisdom of their policy meets our entire approbation; and for the devotion, self denial and zeal which they have manifested under the great difficulties and perplexities which have beset them, we tender to them the gratitude due to those who have done more than it was their duty to do. All of which your committee would respectfully submit.

REMARKS BY THE PRINCIPAL.

PRIMARY SCHOOLS.—Too much importance cannot be attached to the primary schools of our city. Embracing as they do, one-half of our school-going population, they may well demand the care and attention of those who are the guardians of our noble school system.

From five to nine years of age, the time usually allotted to primary instruction, may be regarded as the most important period in the education of the child. Then, impressions are made, and habits formed which will influence him for good or for evil through all his future life. The excellences or defects of the primary schools are transferred to the higher classes and departments, thus weakening or rendering more efficient the entire system. Hence the importance of commencing in the primary school to inculcate in the mind of the child a love for school, for order, for truth and for habits of punctuality, of study and of concentrated thought, and so to direct his education as to make him a "voluntary coworker" in his own development.

Much may be accomplished in this direction by making the school a pleasant place. The play-ground, the furniture and the entire arrangements of the school room should be such as to promote the comfort and happiness of the pupils. The walls should be decorated with maps, charts and the portraits of distinguished men, whose lives are examples worthy of imitation.

A thoroughly qualified teacher is requisite to the success of a primary school. Not one who has merely completed the course of study in some institution of learning, and would make the primary a stepping stone to the higher departments of instruction; but a teacher of age, skill and experience, one who fully comprehends the magnitude of his work—whose mind is so disciplined and views so comprehensive as to qualify him rightly to direct the education of those "whose character it is his office to mould."

The primary schools in the 2d and 4th wards might be greatly improved by dividing those departments, making two in each building, instead of one and grading them with reference to each other.

At present from one hundred to one hundred and twenty small children are crowded into one room to be governed and instructed. Each half hour a class retires to the assistant's room to recite, the principal of the department being left to govern the seventy-five or more pupils that remain, and to conduct a class exercise at the same time. It is evident, we think, that no teacher can properly govern so many small children and skillfully instruct a class at the same time. The instruction or the discipline, or what is more probable, both will be inefficient.

The following table exhibits the number registered in the several primary schools during the first two terms of the present school year; the average number of members, the percentage of daily attendance and the average age of the pupils:

The primary schools of our city are doing a good work. The board have been particularly fortunate in selecting teachers for these departments. Many of them are teachers of experience and well adapted to the positions they occupy, and we trust that through their energy and perseverance, these schools will continue to be worthy of the confidence reposed in them.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOLS.—Of these there are four, one in each ward of the city. The progress made in these schools during the past two terms is all that could reasonable be expected. The teachers are well qualified for the positions they occupy, and are laboring with a zeal highly commendable to them as instructors.

These schools are designed to take up the education of the child where the primary schools leave it, and to carry it on to a point of advancement necessary for admission into the High School.

The frequent promotion of classes from the primary to the intermediate has somewhat retarded the progress of the latter.—There not having been, until recently, sufficient accommodations for all who have applied for admission into the primary schools, and classes have been promoted without regard to qualifications. This course has rendered it necessary for the teachers in the intermediate schools to spend a large portion of their time in bringing up the education these pupils to the point to which it should have been advanced in the primary schools. But these difficulties are now removed.—Opening a primary department in the old academy, and also one in the high school building, has so relieved the largest primary schools as to render it unnecessary hereafter to promote classes until the course for the primary school is completed.

Spelling has received more attention in these schools during the present year than formerly, and still more may be accomplished in this direction by both teachers and scholars. It has been truly said that "bad spelling, especially of one's native language is disreputable," and though this fact is generally admitted, there are many pupils, both in public and private schools, deficient in this important branch. They can render their lessons in grammar with remarkable rapidity, analyze questions in arithmatic with mathematical accuracy, and give geographical descriptions with the accuracy of an "eye witness," but when tested upon this point they fail. Why this deficiency? "Is accuracy in English spelling unattainable?" Certainly not. I grant that it is, of all the departments of study attempted in our common schools, the most difficult. Still it may be mastered. It requires only right methods and persevering practice."

At the close of the first term of the present school year, the highest division in each of the intermediate schools was examined for admission into the high school. This examination was conducted in writing, fifty per cent of correct answers being required by the board for promotion.

Schools.	Ex'd	Ad'd	Rej'd	Av. scholarship of whole No. ex'd.

2d do	9	3	6	48

4th do	10	5	5	50
Total	49	28	21	53½

The following table will show the whole number registered in the intermediate schools during the first two terms of the present school year, the average number of members, the per centage of daily attendance, and the average age of the pupils:

GRAMMAR DEPARTMENT.—This department is designed to receive the graduates of the intermediate schools and prepare them for admission into the senior department of the high school. This work is being performed in a very satisfactory manner. The order is good, the instruction thorough and the entire arrangments of the department are such as to promote the advancement of the pupils.

The whole number of pupils registered in this school since Sept. 12, 1859, is 90, the average No. of members 54, per centage of the per centage of daily attendance 93, average age of the pupils 14¼.

HIGH SCHOOL.—We have reason to believe that this school is accomplishing that for which it was established. Every effort is made on the part of the teachers, to render the instruction and discipline thorough and efficient, and to make it in all respects a school worthy of confidence.

With the increased accommodations provided for this school, there has been a large increase in the attendance. The average number of members for the first two terms of the present school year being 25 per cent greater than for the corresponding terms of last year.

The whole number registered since Sept. 12, 1859, is 173, the average number of members 122, per centage of daily attendance 98, average age of pupils 16¼.

The course of study prescribed for this school should be revised. Prominent among the objections that might be urged against it, is the indefiniteness with reference to the amount of labor to be performed in a given time. The ground to be passed over by each class, in each term, during the successive stages of its progress through the entire course should be distinctly marked.

By the present course many classes are overburdened with studies. This is another serious objection, and one that should receive immediate attention. It is to be feared that in some instances pupils are obliged to sacrifice health in order to accomplish the work assigned them. This difficulty might be obviated by allowing more time to complete the course or by dropping some of the less important branches.

A philosophical and chemical apparatus would add much to the usefulness of our high school. Apparatus is to these sciences what the blackboard is to mathematics, the only true means of demonstrating the principles contained in them. It is to be hoped that these much needed auxiliaries will soon be furnished, that the natural sciences may receive the attention which their importance demands.

LEVI CASS.

High School Exhibition.

The pupils of the Janesville High School gave an exhibition at Lappin's Hall on Friday evening, March 30th, 1860.

At an early hour the people came crowding into the hall and galleries, which were soon literally packed full, every available seat as well as standing place being occupied by an expectant and eager audience.—Proverbial as the people of Janesville are for their interest and pride in their public schools, it was never before so strikingly manifested as upon this occasion. Their attendance upon this exhibition to the number of some over eight hundred, shows conclusively that the schools are regarded as one of the chief excellences of our young city.

The stage was occupied by the teachers and pupils of the High School, clergymen of the city, state superintendent of schools, members of the committee to award prizes and members of the board of education.

The musical pieces selected for the occasion were under the direction of Mr. Wilson of this city, whose skill and taste in that behalf are well and widely known. He was assisted by his accomplished daughters—Misses Helen and Olive—the former presiding admirably at the piano, the latter, with her loud yet sweet and melodious voice adding interest to the occasion, while the trio greatly enhanced the enjoyments all experienced during the performances of the evening.

The exercises were opened by prayer by Rev. Mr. Kinney, followed by a choice piece of music by the class. Master Wm. M. Lawrence then delivered an address supposed to be the one which the president of the Chicago convention will deliver upon taking his seat as presiding officer of that body.—This address is the same as that spoken by Thomas Addis Emmet, at the Philadelphia republican convention in 1856, slightly altered to adapt it to the present times and the different locality of the convention.—We need not say that the young speaker did himself great credit in this effort, as the committee awarded to him the second prize for his declamation.

Miss Sarah M. Kellogg read a composition entitled "A Few Thoughts." It was well read, and contained good thoughts vigorously expressed.

A song, "Scenes that are Brightest," by Mattie J. Louden, then followed. Miss London's song was received with much applause, as it deserved to be.

A composition by Miss Cornelia S. Barrere, was then read by Ed. H. Pullen, in a distinct and impressive manner, and the close attention of the audience testified their just appreciation of its merits. Its chasteness and simplicity won for it the SECOND PREMIUM.

We have procured it for publication, and we doubt not, our readers will find as we did sparkling beauties in

THE FROZEN BROOK.

Far to the north of fable land, stands a snow capped mountain. Towering high above the clouds that float lazily about; its sides covered by sturdy evergreens, or broken by rocky projections, it seems when viewed from a distance the very impersonation of grandeur and beauty.

But upon approaching, the trees that looked so bright and green, grow deformed and yellow, and past huge shadows, shadows so deep and appalling, the bravest man would shrink from entering them. As one advances still farther, he discovers behind the mossy rocks, yawning caverns, and the thorn hedged pathway is full of pitfalls, but half concealed by decaying vines.

This mountain is the mountain, Self, and woe to him who attempts to explore it. If he escape the pitfalls, and be not lost in some of the numerous caverns, he will certainly fall a prey to the savage beasts that abound there. Close beneath, along the base of the mountain, runs the brook Good Intentions; a merry prattling rivulet, dancing and singing in the sunlight; stealing deftly around the stones that fill its channel; caressing the broad petals of the lillies, or murmuring through the pendent branches of the willows, this little brook was contented and happy.

In fable land you know, there is but one language, Earth and Air, Sun and Moon, speak familiarly with each other.

Once, when Good Intentions was singing its merriest song, the Sun spoke to it, saying: "Little brook, you have had a pleasant life thus far; you have made friends of the birds and flowers; even the wild beasts of the forest come often to listen to your happy talk. But you cannot always toy with the flowers. You have a duty to perform elsewhere." Beyond the meadow beside you, through which lies your course, is a large city; hundreds of rivulets just like you, are hurrying toward it, and will unite in one grand river. Then upon your commingled waters will float many ships, freighted with comforts for people of foreign lands, and although you are but small, you shall be part of the ocean. Leave this grim mountain very soon, for if its shadow be cast upon you, chains of ice will hold you captive forever. Be wise and pursue the course pointed out to you without delay, for in delay is danger."

Good Intentions listened with mingled sensations of curiosity and delight. That it was destined for so high a purpose was almost too good to be realised. Fully prepared, it hastened to the outlet toward the meadow. Just as it was casting the last look at the pleasures it was leaving a bird burst into a song, so sweet that the brook paused involuntarily, to listen; the song was a long one, and had scarcely ceased when two stately antelopes came down from the mountain and stood upon the bank of the rivulet.

Procrastination and Self Indulgence were beautiful to look upon; their eyes were large, soft and dreamy, and their voices full of persuasive melody.

"Whither away, little Brook?" asked Procrastination; "you will not leave us, will you?" "Ah, yes, indeed! I must hasten on to the ocean," answered Good Intentions. "Pshaw," interrupted Self Indulgence, "you will have to bear great burdens and rest neither night nor day; instead of your soft, mossy bed, you will roll over sharp stones, and dash against high, hard banks. Instead of the fragrant perfume of flowers, you will be covered by dust and smoke.—Here you can enjoy yourself as you will; there you have no time for aught but work."

"But when night comes, this odious mountain will bind me in chains," cried the little brook.

"But you have plenty of time," put in Procrastination. "The shadows will not fall for hours yet."

Thus urged, Good Intentions tarried listening to Procrastination and Self Indulgence, and scarcely heeded the shadows that crept steadily on. Often as it grew chilly it would determine to pass on to the meadow, but a sweet song, or a beautiful insect, or an open flower bud, attracted it until the shadow of the mountain covered its waters. Then indeed it remembered the warning the Sun had given it in the morning. Alas! the last rays were disappearing behind the mountain, and the brook lay in dim twilight. Already the glittering ice chains were forming an impassable barrier, and try as it would, the brook moved but slowly onward; and before it reached the meadow, Good Intentions found itself a prisoner. Fainter and fainter grew its struggles; quieter, quieter, its once restless waters; deeper, darker, grew the shadow; thicker the chains of ice. And now the poor little brook is bound a captive to the mountain Self.

Little children just setting out on life's journey with the long, bright day before you, in which all your happy anticipations, all your fondest hopes, must be either realized or disappointed, beware of this mountain. Flee away while yet it is morning. Touch not the flowers. Listen not to the bird songs. Tarry not by the willows. If you do, Procrastination and Self Indulgence will charm you until the shadow falls and bind your heart with chains, never to be broken. A prisoner to Self forever.

The reading of this composition was succeeded by a declamation, entitled "Misanthropic Hours" from Master Duane J. Armstrong. This piece contained points of high poetic beauty and feeling, and required powers of no ordinary kind to render it properly. Notwithstanding the youthfulness of the young speaker he acquitted himself exceedingly well, and it is no disparagement to others, to say that there were not a few of the audience who placed him first among the declaimers upon this occasion. He needs but to persevere in the path before him to become an accomplished scholar and orator.

"PAST AND PRESENT—Soliloquy of an Old Man" was then read by Miss Hattie D. Clow, quite distinctly, although she was interrupted by the cry of fire, which for a short time confused, and created some alarm in the audience. To this composition was awarded the First Premium. We shall not stop to pass encomiums upon it. Its publication below avoids that necessity. We cannot refrain from saying, however, that it is full of beauty, and while its chasteness and simplicity challenge our admiration, its mournful sweetness is calculated to start the "moistening drop" to the eye of those unused to weep.

PAST AND PRESENT;

AN OLD MAN'S SOLILOQUY.

"Up from the dim old past are visions stealing.
Bright visions, tinged with memory's finest gold,
That wake within the throbbing heart a feeling
Though in years grown old."

The present days shine not with that unclouded brightness

"That lighted up life's spring time bowers
And gave such fragrance to the flowers."

A calmer light is shed o'er all, and, looking through the windows of my soul, life seems to-day, a holier thing; less bright, but not less beautiful the present days than those that glided by at dawn. The flowers that now spring up along life's pathway are not less glorious, although less gay; the birds that warbled in the morning time their loudest, wildest melodies, still sing their songs to me, but in lower, sweeter tones; the summer showers kissed by the sunshine, wear the same bright hues as spring's first rain bow; and the moistening drops of hope that now descend, call forth new buds of joy to bloom around the heart, and shed perfume along life's way, almost as sweet as those, which ere my infant feet o'erstepped the bounds of childhood, looked up to me and smiled.

Hope ever brightens the present hours. I have planted the willow o'er the graves of the early loved, whose tomb stones pave the backward path of life, and to them turned, when trials pressed, and care o'ercame, to weep; then rose again, brushed off the tears, and, looking forward upon life's coming years, saw new hopes arise, such as I hoped might never die, and still I saw them wither and droop, and looked for more when they were dead. Thus are we ever hoping, "building castles in the air" to see them overthrown, and straightway seeking from out the crumbling ruins a stone, upon which to found another.

Quivering along my spirit-strings runs the low, soft music of the present days, tender and sweet, like that I heard when but a child. Perhaps those tones have come to dwell with me once more, so oft I feel the joyous bliss of those glad hours, when no alloy mixed up my cup of happiness. I used to laugh, and when I laughed 'twas for real joy. Ah, yes, even now I feel the present is but a little way from where the breeze of long ago swept o'er my brow and lightly played amid my hair.

O, beautiful were the fair green isles of love and home, that rose from out the waters of life's troubled, dangerous sea. The memory of those isles make these my lonely, twilight hours, less gloomy; and from their shores still bend the flowers that bid my soul in hope, be strong to breast with courage rougher seas. Fond memory leads me back to a cottage home, a dear old home among the hills, with its haunts sublime, and shady bowers, where the rugged pine and fir trees grew, casting their deep, dark shadows o'er crystal streamlets that ran rippling down through rocky dells; the dear old orchard, where robins sang the whole day long and the turf grew greenest, and the flowers the brightest, that I plucked to deck my Mary's hair. There oft we wandered to gather the spicy mint that grew along the little brooklet's bank; that sunny bank still seems to me the loveliest spot of all the earth, for there I dreamed away life's early, sinless years, and there I plighted faith to her who blessed and made that spot an Eden. Fond memories crowd so thick and fast upon me, that I can scarcely give the present a tithe of what I give the past. As oft as night's dark mantle enfolds the earth, so oft will those, my early days draw near, to sing to me the songs that ne'er grow old.

Progression with improving hand hath swept away the ivy, and the vine that drooped low o'er the open cottage door, and, "Sent the shadows of their slender pointed leaves across the sanded floor." The fireplace, too, where round the hearth we gathered, the noisiest, happiest set of boys and girls that ever 'neath one humble roof tree met hath passed away. Yet even now I see a glittering row of bright tin dishes placed with care upon the mantel piece—such nice brown bread my mother baked, and gave to us in milk so rich and sweet; it never since has tasted thus to me, nor will it e'er again, for then my heart had never ached, and never can it beat so light again. I do not pine in vain regret, but early years come back so bright and fair I love to chant their memories o'er and o'er.

"The old man ceased, sweet slumber stole
Serenely o'er life careworn frame,
And wrapped in dreams his childlike soul
Lived o'er the days of youth again."

After a well executed piece of music by the class, a very credible declamation was delivered by William Bishop—yet as we listened to him we could not repress a smile in the recollection of the comic "F-I-R-X" pronounced by him at the last July exhibition.

A composition—subject 'LIVES CHANGES,' was then read by Miss Mary Belle Armstrong. It was a very meritorious effort—contained beautiful and appropriate thoughts well expressed, and was read with a distinctness and propriety of manner which was the admiration of all. After which ensued a declamation by Claron I. Miltimore, entitled "The Grey Forest Eagle." This delamation was well and forcibly pronounced, with perhaps a little too much of "action," yet evincing much of taste and talent.

"I AM A GIPSY PRETTY MAID," was then very distinctly and beautifully sung by our sprightly little friend, and "Gipsy Pretty Maid," Miss Nettie Eycleshimer,—followed with an excellent and sensible composition, worthy of herself, by Miss Ada Russell on "TRUE NOBILITY."

Master William P. Rines, to whom was awarded by the committee the 3d premium, then delivered a select oration—"Our Federal Union"—in such style as to elicit from the audience the most enthusiastic plaudits. He was followed by a composition by Miss Maggie F. Airis on the "Benefits of Education," which for so young a Miss was full of merit and very creditable indeed.

A song, "Still in my Dreams thou'rt near," was then sung by Miss O. H. Wilson, in her own sweet and peculiar style, the tones of which for ought we know, may be vibrating still on the heart of some youthful swain. After this song a declamation was pronounced by Master Edward F. Welch, to whom was awarded by the committee the FIRST PREMIUM. This declamation was admirably delivered, and gave earnest of more than ordinary excellence as a speaker. He was followed by Miss Phoebe J. Fish with a composition on "Eloquence"—a composition in which there was much merit and a great deal of taste displayed. A declamation was then delivered by Mr. Ed. H. Pullen—subject, "The Rise and Progress of Religious Truth in America." This young gentleman possesses a fine voice, and exhibited much taste as a declaimer.

A song was then sung by the class, after which a declamation by Mr. Henry B. Williams—subject "Decision of Character"—was well and creditably delivered. "Twilight Musings" by Miss Cynthia G. Haynor, was then read, which was conceded by all to be a fine production; while "Trials," a composition by little Miss Charlotte B. Ogilvie, elicited universal praise for its artlessness and childlike simplicity and beauty.

After another song by the class, a composition—subject, "Clouds and Sunshine," was read by Miss Marion E. Denton, an excellent and tasteful production, showing a fine imagination and careful thought.

Mr. Hudson, in behalf of the committee to determine the prizes for compositions, then announced the following awards: To Miss Hattie D. Clow, first prize, and to Miss Cornelia S. Barrere, the second prize. The compositions are given above.

The following prizes were also awarded for declamations:

1st. Edward F. Welch, Irving's Life of Washington, in five volumes—offered by Moseley & Brother.

2d. Wm. M. Lawrence——Livingston's Travels in Africa—offered by Rev. Mr. Goodspeed,

3d, Wm. B. Rines—Scott's Poetical Works—offered by Mr. L. Cass.

The young gentlemen were called forward and their prizes were presented to them amidst much applause from the audience.

The prize for the best speller in the High School, among those who contested for it, offered by Miss Frances A. Bacon, which consisted of a splendid copy of Shakespeare, having been awarded to James Benedict, he came forward and received it from the hands of Mr. Hudson.

The exercises of the evening were closed by a "Valedictory" address from Mr. Wm. R. Graham, exhibiting an intellect of more than ordinary power for so young a gentleman. It was well and feelingly delivered and what is better than all in a public speaker, it was naturally, not theatrically, pronounced.

We have thus given a detailed account of the late High School exhibition. We have spoken in terms of praise of every performance. We could not do otherwise, and tell the truth. It was credible to the school and all connected with it. The compositions evinced the highest order of intellect and cultivation, and it was a common remark that they would compare favorably with those coming from pupils in the best seminaries of learning in the country; after a benediction by the Rev. E. J. Goodspeed, we venture to say no audience ever dispersed from a similar gathering, more generally gratified than did that which was congregated together in Lappin's Hall last Friday evening.

The Duty of Republicans.

Here come to us only one right course for republicans to pursue to-morrow, and that is to support the regularly nominated ticket. If dissatisfaction exists with any of the nominations, the evils complained of are more likely, at this time, to be increased than remedied by refusing to support those nominations. Divisions now among republicans will leave their influence upon the next official election next fall. Janesville is unquestionably a republican city, and should now, in an especial manner exhibit its true character. The success of the "people's" ticket will be heralded through out the state as a "democratic" triumph, and in no place in the state would our opponents like so well to claim a victory as in Janesville. We hope, therefore, that the republicans of the city will give a united and vigorous support to all their tickets, and we appeal to those who may feel aggrieved by any proceedings in any of the conventions, to show their attachment to their cause by a union of effort and action at the polls. While merely personal feelings or preferences have been sacrificed in other localities, let not Janesville be detached from the phalanx of republican cities which have commenced so well the work of the fall campaign by a glorious triumph in the municipal elections.

Vote for Chief Justice.

Especial attention should be given to the ballot for chief justice of the supreme court. It is a separate ballot, and unless care is taken, the city ticket may be voted without the accompaniment of the judicial ticket.—We have a large number of tickets with Mr. Sloan's name, and every man who distributes a city ticket should supply himself with a lot of for Mr. Sloan.

DONT FORGET IT.

People's Caucus.

The true character of the "People's Caucus" was well indicated by the persons who were prominent in it. J. B. Doe was chairman, J. H. Vermilye, secretary, and the nominations were all made, we understand, on the motion of Joel Hazelton. This is a pretty liberal sprinkling of "democracy" for a "people's" movement.

Dr. John Mitchell was nominated for Mayor; Felix Barrere for Clerk; Ira Justin, Jr. for Treasurer; H. N. Comstock for Police Justice, and Hiram Taylor for Justice of the Peace. The vote on this office was 106, and the highest cast.

Dr. Mitchell is a thorough democrat, and in his political affiliations, nothing else.—The same is true of Mr. Taylor. Mr. Barrere and Mr. Comstock were taken from the republican ticket, solely to strengthen the chances of the other candidates on the "people's" ticket, and from no love to them or respect to republicans. Mr. Justin was a candidate for treasurer in the republican convention, and was fairly beaten, because he had held the office, which is the most lucrative in the city, for three years, and it was deemed eminently fit and proper that he should yield his place to somebody else. We think Mr. Justin, as a matter of propriety in himself, and duty in view of his profession as a republican, should have conformed to the decision of the convention, and not allowed himself to be placed in opposition to the nominee of that convention. If he had been nominated in the republican convention he would have expected and claimed the support of the republican party. In his present position we do not see how any republican can consistently support him.

Such is the character of the "peoples" movement. It is the old dodge of a minority party endeavoring to slip some of its members into important offices which they could not obtain under their own colors.—Let the republicans of the city put an emphatic veto on the attempt.

Vote for Sloan for Chief Justice.

Well. For and vote the republican ticket.

REPORT OF EXAMINING COMMITTEE.

Mr. L. Cass, Principal; Miss Francis A. Bacon, Miss A. B. Morgan, and Miss Belle S. Webster, Assistants.
Grammar Department.—Mrs. Caroline Fisher, Principal; Miss Mary Graham, Assistant.

To the Board of Education:

The committee appointed to examine the high school, including the grammar department present the following report:

Some of the committee were present during the whole of the two days appropriated to this examination, and thus were enabled to form a very satisfactory opinion of the attainments of the scholars and the modes of instruction employed. There were examined three classes in arithmetic; three in algebra; two in geometry: one in physical geography; one each in chemistry, physiology, history and latin, and two in English grammar.

The teachers allowed the committee full opportunity to test, in any way they chose, the knowledge of the pupils in the subject under examination.

The first impression was that nothing had been prepared expressly for that occasion. On the contrary sufficient time was allowed for each class to pass over somewhat minutely the ground that had been traversed during the term. The prompt replies to questions, having reference to subjects however remote, and the readiness with which any misstatement was detected by the members of the class, showed conclusively, that the class, as a whole, had made thorough work.

The committee are highly gratified with the general appearance of the school, believing that in the quality of its instructors the modes of instruction and in the attainments of its scholars in the branches taught, it will take high rank among the best schools.

The committee do not feel at liberty to call attention to particular classes. In almost every school, some one department acquires a leading position, and hence the school gains a reputation to accord with it. Judging only from this examination, it would seem that the mathematical department had acquired this position.

Some philosophical and chemical apparatus is greatly needed. Much interest would be added to studies that are now comparatively dry and uninteresting, if this want was supplied. But in no department of study did the committee find a lack of interest, either in teacher or pupil. The school was thoroughly ALIVE in all of its departments.

Our schools are the pride of our city. In no other way, by an equal expenditure, can our citizens present to the world around us an attraction so noble—to no other purpose will the money invested yield a profit so large and so lasting.

WARD SCHOOLS.

REPORTS OF EXAMINING COMMITTEES.

First Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Mr. A. C. Fish, Principal. Miss Helen A. Bowen, Assistant.
Primary Department.—No. 1, Miss Mary E. Ames. No. 2, Miss L. A. Gilman. No. 3, Miss Mason. No. 4, Miss Mary J. Wingate.

To the Board of Education:

The committee appointed to attend the examination of the several schools in the first ward in this city, respectfully report that they have performed that duty and listened to the exercises with very great pleasure.

At Miss Mason's school at the white school house, they found about 50 scholars. Their reading, spelling, and recitations in mental arithmetic were very good. If they excelled in any one recitation it was in geography. Their drawings upon the black board demonstrative of the science of geography, showed that these scholars were making rapid progress.

Miss Wingate's school in the brick school house; 48 scholars. We found it under excellent discipline, and their declamations, singing and recitations such as to show that their teaching had not been in vain. We have to regret that we could not have given more time to this school.

Miss Gilman's school in the basement of the Academy building, of about 40 scholars is a gem of a school, and their teacher has great reason to be proud of it, as she evidently is. Their recitation in mental arithmetic, and the declamation of Master Albert Angel, are well worth a visit to this school.

Miss Ames' department in the same building is a higher grade than either of the others mentioned, and is progressing well. In this school your committee discovered many indications of talent among the pupils, and of minds already under excellent discipline. No parent, we think, could desire to see his child making better improvement than they are making in this department.

The last and highest department is that under Mr. Fish, assisted by Miss Brown.—We observed in this department as we did in all the others the most perfect good-will and sympathy, between scholars and teachers, and the government and general management of this school, as also in the recitations and declamations, both scholars and teachers manifested a common interest, united in one common effort, and their performances showed most satisfactorily to your committee that the efforts of neither had been unsuccessful.

The committee regard the exercise of singing in these schools as one which in their judgment, contributes much to the general good feeling and perfect subordination that prevails among the pupils, and also as an accomplishment that is highly creditable to its possessor. The progress already made in the science of music is highly commendable.

It is evident to your committee that the teachers in the first ward are doing their whole duty and the scholars making all the progress that could be desired. But we think the schools entitled to better accommodations. The academy building is entirely insufficient for the number of scholars that do and would attend them both as to the room it affords, and its construction. A good ward school building is very much needed, without which, the schools must suffer very great inconvenience which will increase with the increase of numbers.

In conclusion your committee would say that they were unable, for the want of time, to make as thorough an examination of the schools as they could wish and as duty would require, although the whole day was devoted to them, yet they were unable to hear recitations in many of the branches taught, and make up their judgment of the whole from those they were permitted to hear.

Yours, very respectfully,
S. A. HUDSON, Ch'n.

Second Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Mr. E. F. Spaulding, Principal. Miss H. R. Moon, Assistant.
Primary Department.—Miss Mary E. Cook, Principal. Miss D. Perkins, Assistant.

To the Board of Education:

We found the school under the competent and able supervision of Mr. Spaulding, general superintendent and principal of the intermediate department, assisted by Miss Moon, with Miss Cook, principal of the primary department, assisted by Miss Perkins.

We spent the day in a careful and rigid inspection and examination of the various exercises and recitations. The rooms were finely decorated with paintings and evergreens, which with the excellent vocal music, and the religious exercises, furnished aesthetic and religious surroundings, which cannot fail to exert a salutary and conservative influence for good upon the minds and hearts of the youth there congregated. There were about 70 scholars in each room. Those in the primary department ranged from four to ten, and those in the intermediate department from seven to fifteen years of age. The silence and order which prevailed in both rooms, reflect the highest credit to the teachers as disciplinarians.

The docility of the pupils is also very commendable.

We were highly pleased with the performance of the classes in reading, the distinct enunciation and the correct emphasis and pronunciation. The recitations of the classes in both mental and written arithmetic were entirely satisfactory, exhibiting a thorough knowledge of both principles and practice as far as the pupils have proceeded in the science. The other branches, grammar, geography, &c., were well learned and the knowledge of them satisfactorily shown. We were highly pleased with the efforts of the teachers in the primary department to teach their little pupils geography, natural history, &c., orally. We regret the want of apparatus to assist the teachers in illustrating the sciences taught.

Third Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Miss Amelia Rockefeller, Principal. Miss L. Martin, Assistant.
Primary Department.—No 1, Miss S. Webster. No 2, Mrs. A. M. Hardinge.

To the Board of Education:

The undersigned, appointed by you to examine the third ward schools, respectfully beg leave to report, that they have attended to the duties of their appointment; that their examination though necessarily but too brief, was sufficiently thorough to convince them that good progress was being made by the pupils in their several studies, and that the attainments already reached by the various classes under examination are to a degree worthy of much commendation. The department of the pupils in the school room, which your committee look upon as of the first importance in educational discipline, was in general, orderly, quiet and respectful towards their instructors, and there was a praise-worthy degree of attention exhibited in the recitations, and of solicitude even, to answer correctly the questions proposed to them by their teachers and the committee. The primary department No. 1, taught by Mrs. Hardinge gave your committee much pleasure; especially some classes of very small children, who read their lessons with the fluency and correctness of older scholars; their spelling was also excellent. They have begun right to make good students. In the primary department No. 2, Miss Webster, teacher, there was a bright little class in mental arithmetic that exhibited active minds and thorough training on the part of the teacher. This was the only class the committee had time to examine in this department. In the intermediate department, Miss Rockefeller, teacher and Miss Martin assistant, classes were examined in geography, arithmetic and grammar. After a pretty thorough questioning in these studies by the teachers, the committee were at some pains to take the pupils away from their text books and to suggest questions that might not be familiar to them, but they were gratified in finding that these questions in most instances were answered as promptly as those occurring in their regular lessons, evincing that they had learned to apply the principles generally which were given in the books for specific cases.

Upon the whole, the committee are of the belief that the teachers in the several departments have performed the duties of their positions faithfully and efficiently; that the progress shown in the classes is highly creditable, alike to the efforts of the teachers and to the intellect of the pupils.

Respectfully submitted,
LEVI ALDEN,
S. W. SMITH,
Committee.

Fourth Ward Schools.

Intermediate Department.—Mr. A. M. Case, Principal. Miss Pierson, Assistant.
Primary Department.—Miss Jennie C. Newman, Principal. Miss E. A. St. John, Assistant.

To the Board of Education:

The undersigned having been requested by the Board of Education of the city of Janesville to attend the examination of the pupils of the fourth ward school at the close of the present term, would respectfully submit that they have attended the said examination and have witnessed the recitations of the respective classes, and the exercises in music, composition, and declamation, and have examined some specimens of chalk mapping on the black board, and have observed so far as they were able from so short an opportunity the mode and principles of government adopted by the teachers. In regard to the recitations we would say that the classes acquitted themselves with great credit, showing to our satisfaction that they have pursued their studies during the term with industry and a hearty good will; that the instructions of their teachers have been systematic, able, thorough. The undersigned also noticed with peculiar pleasure the proficiency which has been made in music; and the good taste and originality manifested in composition. In declamation many of the scholars exhibited true evidences of future eminence in the fields of eloquence. Of the map of the United States drawn in chalk upon the black board, (taking into consideration the age of the author) your committee would say they have never seen it excelled. Of the principles and mode of government we would say that our observations were quite limited, but we think we saw enough of teachers, and pupils, to show that the whole system is founded upon the principle of love; and that in the administration of the government by the teachers this principle has not been departed from. And your committee would bear testimony to the efficiency and peculiar value of this principle over that of fear or force.

Your committee have been informed and they believe that the attendance has been fully as large during the past term as at any former terms; and that the relations between teachers and scholars, seem to be, and no doubt are, agreeable, and happy.

The undersigned on their own behalf, and on behalf of the parents, and residents of the fourth ward, take this occasion to express to the teachers of this school their entire satisfaction with the manner in which the same has been conducted by them; and we would hereby tender to them our hearty thanks for the ability, fidelity, and zeal which they have manifested for us, for our children and for the community in which we live.

And to the board of education we would say, that the manner in which their duties have been performed, and the wisdom of their policy meets our entire approbation; and for the devotion, self denial and zeal which they have manifested under the great difficulties and perplexities which have beset them, we tender to them the gratitude due to those who have done more than it was their duty to do. All of which your committee would respectfully submit.

IRA MILTIMORE,
H. N. COMSTOCK,
Committee.

Dated March 29th, 1860.

REMARKS BY THE PRINCIPAL.

PRIMARY SCHOOLS.—Too much importance cannot be attached to the primary schools of our city. Embracing as they do, one-half of our school-going population, they may well demand the care and attention of those who are the guardians of our noble school system.

From five to nine years of age, the time usually allotted to primary instruction, may be regarded as the most important period in the education of the child. Then, impressions are made, and habits formed which will influence him for good or for evil through all his future life. The excellences or defects of the primary schools are transferred to the higher classes and departments, thus weakening or rendering more efficient the entire system. Hence the importance of commencing in the primary school to inculcate in the mind of the child a love for school, for order, for truth and for habits of punctuality, of study and of concentrated thought, and so to direct his education as to make him a "voluntary coworker" in his own development.

Much may be accomplished in this direction by making the school a pleasant place. The play-ground, the furniture and the entire arrangements of the school room should be such as to promote the comfort and happiness of the pupils. The walls should be decorated with maps, charts and the portraits of distinguished men, whose lives are examples worthy of imitation.

A thoroughly qualified teacher is requisite to the success of a primary school. Not one who has merely completed the course of study in some institution of learning, and would make the primary a stepping stone to the higher departments of instruction; but a teacher of age, skill and experience, one who fully comprehends the magnitude of his work—whose mind is so disciplined and views so comprehensive as to qualify him rightly to direct the education of those "whose character it is his office to mould."

The primary schools in the 2d and 4th wards might be greatly improved by dividing those departments, making two in each building, instead of one and grading them with reference to each other.

At present from one hundred to one hundred and twenty small children are crowded into one room to be governed and instructed. Each half hour a class retires to the assistant's room to recite, the principal of the department being left to govern the seventy-five or more pupils that remain, and to conduct a class exercise at the same time. It is evident, we think, that no teacher can properly govern so many small children and skillfully instruct a class at the same time. The instruction or the discipline, or what is more probable, both will be inefficient.

The following table exhibits the number registered in the several primary schools during the first two terms of the present school year; the average number of members, the percentage of daily attendance and the average age of the pupils:

The primary schools of our city are doing a good work. The board have been particularly fortunate in selecting teachers for these departments. Many of them are teachers of experience and well adapted to the positions they occupy, and we trust that through their energy and perseverance, these schools will continue to be worthy of the confidence reposed in them.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOLS.—Of these there are four, one in each ward of the city. The progress made in these schools during the past two terms is all that could reasonable be expected. The teachers are well qualified for the positions they occupy, and are laboring with a zeal highly commendable to them as instructors.

These schools are designed to take up the education of the child where the primary schools leave it, and to carry it on to a point of advancement necessary for admission into the High School.

The frequent promotion of classes from the primary to the intermediate has somewhat retarded the progress of the latter.—There not having been, until recently, sufficient accommodations for all who have applied for admission into the primary schools, and classes have been promoted without regard to qualifications. This course has rendered it necessary for the teachers in the intermediate schools to spend a large portion of their time in bringing up the education these pupils to the point to which it should have been advanced in the primary schools. But these difficulties are now removed.—Opening a primary department in the old academy, and also one in the high school building, has so relieved the largest primary schools as to render it unnecessary hereafter to promote classes until the course for the primary school is completed.

Spelling has received more attention in these schools during the present year than formerly, and still more may be accomplished in this direction by both teachers and scholars. It has been truly said that "bad spelling, especially of one's native language is disreputable," and though this fact is generally admitted, there are many pupils, both in public and private schools, deficient in this important branch. They can render their lessons in grammar with remarkable rapidity, analyze questions in arithmatic with mathematical accuracy, and give geographical descriptions with the accuracy of an "eye witness," but when tested upon this point they fail. Why this deficiency? "Is accuracy in English spelling unattainable?" Certainly not. I grant that it is, of all the departments of study attempted in our common schools, the most difficult. Still it may be mastered. It requires only right methods and persevering practice."

At the close of the first term of the present school year, the highest division in each of the intermediate schools was examined for admission into the high school. This examination was conducted in writing, fifty per cent of correct answers being required by the board for promotion.

The following table shows the result:

Schools.	Ex'd	Ad'd	Rej'd	Av. Scholarship of whole No. ex'd.
1st Ward Interm'e,	15	14	1	99
2d do	6	3	3	88

The following table will show the whole number registered in the intermediate schools during the first two terms of the present school year, the average number of members, the per centage of daily attendance, and the average age of the pupils:

GRAMMAR DEPARTMENT.—This department is designed to receive the graduates of the intermediate schools and prepare them for admission into the senior department of the high school. This work is being performed in a very satisfactory manner. The order is good, the instruction thorough and the entire arrangements of the department are such as to promote the advancement of the pupils.

The whole number of pupils registered in this school since Sept. 12, 1859, is 90, the average No. of members 54, per centage of the per centage of daily attendance 93, average age of the pupils 14½.

HIGH SCHOOL.—We have reason to believe that this school is accomplishing that for which it was established. Every effort is made on the part of the teachers, to render the instruction and discipline thorough and efficient, and to make it in all respects a school worthy of confidence.

With the increased accommodations provided for this school, there has been a large increase in the attendance. The average number of members for the first two terms of the present school year being 25 per cent greater than for the corresponding terms of last year.

The whole number registered since Sept. 12, 1859, is 173, the average number of members 122, per centage of daily attendance 98, average age of pupils 16½.

The course of study prescribed for this school should be revised. Prominent among the objections that might be urged against it, is the indefiniteness with reference to the amount of labor to be performed in a given time. The ground to be passed over by each class, in each term, during the successive stages of its progress through the entire course should be distinctly marked.

By the present course many classes are overburdened with studies. This is another serious objection, and one that should receive immediate attention. It is to be feared that in some instances pupils are obliged to sacrifice health in order to accomplish the work assigned them. This difficulty might be obviated by allowing more time to complete the course or by dropping some of the less important branches.

A philosophical and chemical apparatus would add much to the usefulness of our high school. Apparatus is to these sciences what the blackboard is to mathematics, the only true means of demonstrating the principles contained in them. It is to be hoped that these much needed auxiliaries will soon be furnished, that the natural sciences may receive the attention which their importance demands.

LEVI CASS.

High School Exhibition.

The pupils of the Janesville High School gave an exhibition at Lappin's Hall on Friday evening, March 30th, 1860.

At an early hour the people came crowding into the hall and galleries, which were soon literally packed full, every available seat as well as standing place being occupied by an expectant and eager audience.—Proverbial as the people of Janesville are for their interest and pride in their public schools, it was never before so strikingly manifested as upon this occasion. Their attendance upon this exhibition to the number of some over eight hundred, shows conclusively that the schools are regarded as one of the chief excellences of our young city.

The stage was occupied by the teachers and pupils of the High School, clergymen of the city, state superintendent of schools, members of the committee to award prizes, and members of the board of education.

The musical pieces selected for the occasion were under the direction of Mr. Wilson of this city, whose skill and taste in that behalf are well and widely known. He was assisted by his accomplished daughters—Misses Helen and Olive—the former presiding admirably at the piano, the latter, with her loud yet sweet and melodious voice adding interest to the occasion, while the trio greatly enhanced the enjoyments all experienced during the performances of the evening.

The exercises were opened by prayer by Rev. Mr. Kinney, followed by a choice piece of music by the class. Master Wm. M. Lawrence then delivered an address supposed to be the one which the president of the Chicago convention will deliver upon taking his seat as presiding officer of that body.—This address is the same as that spoken by Thomas Addis Emmet, at the Philadelphia republican convention in 1856, slightly altered to adapt it to the present times and the different locality of the convention.—We need not say that the young speaker did himself great credit in this effort, as the committee awarded to him the second prize for his declamation.

Miss Sarah M. Kellogg read a composition entitled "A Few Thoughts." It was well read, and contained good thoughts vigorously expressed.

A song, "Scenes that are Brightest," by Mattie J. Loudon, then followed. Miss Loudon's song was received with much applause, as it deserved to be.

A composition by Miss Cornelia S. Barrere, was then read by Ed. H. Pullen, in a distinct and impressive manner, and the close attention of the audience testified their just appreciation of its merits. Its chasteness and simplicity won for it the SECOND PREMIUM.

We have procured it for publication, and we doubt not, our readers will find as we did sparkling beauties in

THE FROZEN BROOK.

Far to the north of fable land, stands a snow capped mountain. Towering high above the clouds that float lazily about; its sides covered by sturdy evergreens, or broken by rocky projections, it seems when viewed from a distance the very impersonation of grandeur and beauty.

But upon approaching, the trees that looked so bright and green, grow deformed and yellow, and cast huge shadows, shadows so deep and appalling, the bravest man would shrink from entering them. As one advances still farther, he discovers behind the mossy rocks, yawning caverns, and the thorn hedged pathway is full of pitfalls, but half concealed by decaying vines.

This mountain is the mountain, Self, and woe to him who attempts to explore it. If he escape the pitfalls, and be not lost in some of the numerous caverns, he will certainly fall a prey to the savage beasts that abound there. Close beneath, along the base of the mountain, runs the brook Good Intentions; a merry prattling rivulet, dancing and singing in the sunlight; stealing deftly around the stones that fill its channel; caressing the broad petals of the lillies, or murmuring through the pendent branches of the willows, this little brook was contented and happy.

In fable land you know, there is but one language, Earth and Air, Sun and Moon, speak familiarly with each other.

Once, when Good Intentions was singing its merriest song, the Sun spoke to it, saying: "Little brook, you have had a pleasant life thus far; you have made friends of the birds and flowers; even the wild beasts of the forest come often to listen to your happy talk. But you cannot always toy with the flowers. You have a duty to perform elsewhere." Beyond the meadow beside you, through which lies your course, is a large city; hundreds of rivulets just like you, are hurrying toward it, and will unite in one grand river. Then upon your commingled waters will float many ships, freighted with comforts for people of foreign lands, and although you are but small, you shall be part of the ocean. Leave this grim mountain very soon, for if its shadow be cast upon you, chains of ice will hold you captive forever. Be wise and pursue the course pointed out to you without delay, for in delay is danger."

Good Intentions listened with mingled sensations of curiosity and delight. That it was destined for so high a purpose was almost too good to be realised. Fully prepared, it hastened to the outlet toward the meadow. Just as it was casting the last look at the pleasures it was leaving a bird burst into a song, so sweet that the brook paused involuntarily, to listen; the song was a long one, and had scarcely ceased when two stately antelopes came down from the mountain and stood upon the bank of the rivulet.

Procrastination and Self Indulgence were beautiful to look upon; their eyes were large, soft and dreamy, and their voices full of persuasive melody.

"Whither away, little Brook?" asked Procrastination; "you will not leave us, will you?" "Ah, yes, indeed! I must hasten on to the ocean," answered Good Intentions. "Pshaw," interrupted Self Indulgence, "you will have to bear great burdens and rest neither night nor day; instead of your soft, mossy bed, you will roll over sharp stones, and dash against high, hard banks. Instead of the fragrant perfume of flowers, you will be covered by dust and smoke.—Here you can enjoy yourself as you will; there you have no time for aught but work."

"But when night comes, this odious mountain will bind me in chains," cried the little brook.

"But you have plenty of time," put in Procrastination. "The shadows will not fall for hours yet."

Thus urged, Good Intentions tarried listening to Procrastination and Self Indulgence, and scarcely heeded the shadows that crept steadily on. Often as it grew chilly it would determine to pass on to the meadow, but a sweet song, or a beautiful insect, or an open flower bud, attracted it until the shadow of the mountain covered its waters. Then indeed it remembered the warning the Sun had given it in the morning. Alas! the last rays were disappearing behind the mountain, and the brook lay in dim twilight. Already the glittering ice chains were forming an impassable barrier, and try as it would, the brook moved but slowly onward; and before it reached the meadow, Good Intentions found itself a prisoner. Fainter and fainter grew its struggles; quieter, quieter, its once restless waters; deeper, darker, grew the shadow; thicker the chains of ice. And now the poor little brook is bound a captive to the mountain Self.

Little children just setting out on life's journey with the long, bright day before you, in which all your happy anticipations, all your fondest hopes, must be either realized or disappointed, beware of this mountain. Flee away while yet it is morning. Touch not the flowers. Listen not to the bird songs. Tarry not by the willows. If you do, Procrastination and Self Indulgence will charm you until the shadow falls and bind your heart with chains, never to be broken. A prisoner to Self forever.

The reading of this composition was succeeded by a declamation, entitled "Misanthropic Hours" from Master Duane J. Armstrong. This piece contained points of high poetic beauty and feeling, and required powers of no ordinary kind to render it properly. Notwithstanding the youthfulness of the young speaker he acquitted himself exceedingly well, and it is no disparagement to others, to say that there were not a few of the audience who placed him first among the declaimers upon this occasion. He needs but to persevere in the path before him to become an accomplished scholar and orator.

"PAST AND PRESENT—Soliloquy of an Old Man" was then read by Miss Hattie D. Clow, quite distinctly, although she was interrupted by the cry of fire, which for a short time confused, and created some alarm in the audience. To this composition was awarded the First Premium. We shall not stop to pass encomiums upon it. Its publication below avoids that necessity. We cannot refrain from saying, however, that it is full of beauty, and while its chasteness and simplicity challenge our admiration, its mournful sweetness is calculated to start the "moistening drop" to the eye of those unused to weep.

EAST AND PRESENT;

AN OLD MAN'S SOLILOQUY.

"Up from the dim old past are visions stealing,
Bright visions, tinged with memory's finest gold,
That wake within the throbbing heart a feeling,
Though in years grown old."

The present days shine not with that unclouded brightness

"That lighted up life's spring time bowers
And gave such fragrance to the flowers."

A calmer light is shed o'er all, and, looking through the windows of my soul, life seems to-day, a holier thing; less bright, but not less beautiful the present days than those that glided by at dawn. The flowers that now spring up along life's pathway are not less glorious, although less gay; the birds that warbled in the morning time their loudest, wildest melodies, still sing their songs to me, but in lower, sweeter tones; the summer showers kissed by the sunshine, wear the same bright hues as spring's first rain bow; and the moistening drops of hope that now descend, call forth new buds of joy to bloom around the heart, and shed perfume along life's way, almost as sweet as those, which ere my infant feet o'erstepped the bounds of childhood, looked up to me and smiled.

Hope ever brightens the present hours. I have planted the willow o'er the graves of the early loved, whose tomb stones pave the backward path of life, and to them turned, when trials pressed, and care o'ercame, to weep; then rose again, brushed off the tears, and, looking forward upon life's coming years, saw new hopes arise, such as I hoped might never die, and still I saw them wither and droop, and looked for more when they were dead. Thus are we ever hoping, "building castles in the air" to see them overthrown, and straightway seeking from out the crumbling pains a stone, upon which to found another.

Quivering along my spirit-strings runs the low, soft music of the present days, tender and sweet, like that I heard when but a child. Perhaps those tones have come to dwell with me once more, so oft I feel the joyous bliss of those glad hours, when no alloy mixed up my cup of happiness. I used to laugh, and when I laughed 'twas for real joy. Ah, yes, even now I feel the present is but a little way from where the breeze of long ago swept o'er my brow and lightly played amid my hair.

O, beautiful were the fair green isles of love and home, that rose from out the waters of life's troubled, dangerous sea. The memory of those isles make these my lonely, twilight hours, less gloomy; and from their shores still bend the flowers that bid my soul in hope, be strong to breast with courage rougher seas. Fond memory leads me back to a cottage home, a dear old home among the hills, with its haunts sublime, and shady bowers, where the rugged pine and fir trees grew, casting their deep, dark shadows o'er crystal streamlets that ran rippling down through rocky dells; the dear old orchard, where robins sung the whole day long and the turf grew greenest, and the flowers the brightest, that I plucked to deck my Mary's hair. There oft we wandered to gather the spicy mint that grew along the little brooklet's bank; that sunny bank still seems to me the loveliest spot of all the earth, for there I dreamed away life's early, sinless years, and there I plighted faith to her who blessed and made that spot an Eden. Fond memories crowd so thick and fast upon me, that I can scarcely give the present a tithe of what I give the past. As oft as night's dark mantle enfolds the earth, so oft will those, my early days draw near, to sing to me the songs that ne'er grow old.

Progression with improving hand hath swept away the ivy, and the vine that drooped low o'er the open cottage door, and, "Sent the shadows of their slender pointed leaves across the sanded floor." The fireplace, too, where round the hearth we gathered, the noisiest, happiest set of boys and girls that ever 'neath one humble roof tree met hath passed away. Yet even now I see a glittering row of bright tin dishes placed with care upon the mantel piece—such nice brown bread my mother baked, and gave to us in milk so rich and sweet; it never since has tasted thus to me, nor will it e'er again, for then my heart had never ached, and never can it beat so light again. I do not pine in vain regret, but early years come back so bright and fair I love to chant their memories o'er and o'er.

"The old man ceased, sweet slumber stole
Serenely o'er his careworn frame,
And wrapped in dreams his childlike soul
Lived o'er the days of youth again."

After a well executed piece of music by the class, a very credible declamation was delivered by William Bishop—yet as we listened to him we could not repress a smile in the recollection of the comic "F-I-R-E" pronounced by him at the last July exhibition.

A composition—subject 'LIFES CHANGES,' was then read by Miss Mary Belle Armstrong. It was a very meritorious effort—contained beautiful and appropriate thoughts well expressed, and was read with a distinctness and propriety of manner which was the admiration of all. After which ensued a declamation by Claron I. Miltimore, entitled "The Grey Forest Eagle." This delamation was well and forcibly pronounced, with perhaps a little too much of "action," yet evincing much of taste and talent.

"I AM A GIPSY PRETTY MAID," was then very distinctly and beautifully sung by our sprightly little friend, and "Gipsy Pretty Maid," Miss Nettie Eyeleshimer,—followed with an excellent and sensible composition, worthy of herself, by Miss Ada Russell on "TRUE NOBILITY."

Master William P. Rines, to whom was awarded by the committee the 3d premium, then delivered a select oration—"Our Federal Union"—in such style as to elicit from the audience the most enthusiastic plaudits. He was followed by a composition by Miss Maggie F. Airis on the "Benefits of Education," which for so young a Miss was full of merit and very creditable indeed.

A song, "Still in my Dreams thou'rt near," was then sung by Miss O. H. Wilson, in her own sweet and peculiar style, the tones of which for ought we know, may be vibrating still on the heart of some youthful swain. After this song a declamation was pronounced by Master Edward F. Welch, to whom was awarded by the committee the FIRST PREMIUM. This declamation was admirably delivered, and gave earnest of more than ordinary excellence as a speaker. He was followed by Miss Phoebe J. Fish with a composition on "Eloquence"—a composition in which there was much merit and a great deal of taste displayed. A declamation was then delivered by Mr. Ed. H. Pullen—subject, "The Rise and Progress of Religious Truth in America." This young gentleman possesses a fine voice, and exhibited much taste as a declaimer.

A song was then sung by the class, after which a declamation by Mr. Henry B. Williams—subject "Decision of Character"—was well and creditably delivered. "Twilight Musings" by Miss Cynthia G. Haynor, was then read, which was conceded by all to be a fine production; while "Trials," a composition by little Miss Charlotte B. Ogilvie, elicited universal praise for its artlessness and childlike simplicity and beauty.

After another song by the class, a composition—subject, "Clouds and Sunshine," was read by Miss Marion E. Denton, an excellent and tasteful production, showing a fine imagination and careful thought.

Mr. Hudson, in behalf of the committee to determine the prizes for compositions, then announced the following awards: To Miss Hattie D. Clow, first prize, and to Miss Cornelia S. Barreve, the second prize. The compositions are given above.

The following prizes were also awarded for declamations:

1st. Edward F. Welch, Irving's Life of Washington, in five volumes—offered by Moseley & Brother.

2d. Wm. M. Lawrence—Livingston's Travels in Africa—offered by Rev. Mr. Goodspeed.

3d. Wm. B. Rines—Scott's Poetical Works—offered by Mr. L. Cass.

The young gentlemen were called forward and their prizes were presented to them amidst much applause from the audience.

The prize for the best speller in the High School, among those who contested for it, offered by Miss Frances A. Bacon, which consisted of a splendid copy of Shakespeare, having been awarded to James Benedict, he came forward and received it from the hands of Mr. Hudson.

The exercises of the evening were closed by a "Valedictory" address from Mr. Wm. R. Graham, exhibiting an intellect of more than ordinary power for so young a gentleman. It was well and feelingly delivered, and what is better than all in a public speaker, it was naturally, not theatrically, pronounced.

We have thus given a detailed account of the late High School exhibition. We have spoken in terms of praise of every performance. We could not do otherwise, and tell the truth. It was credible to the school and all connected with it. The compositions evinced the highest order of intellect and cultivation, and it was a common remark that they would compare favorably with those coming from pupils in the best seminaries of learning in the country; after a benediction by the Rev. E. J. Goodspeed, we venture to say no audience ever dispersed from a similar gathering, more generally gratified than did that which was congregated together in Lappin's Hall last Friday evening.
